

NAZIS DRIVE WEDGE DEEPER ALONG DON; ALLIED AIR FORCES AGAIN POUND ROMMEL

SHOT DOWN IN FRANCE—Moran Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Morris, of Chamblee, a pilot in the 133d Eagle Squadron of the RAF, was shot down during a raid May 30, a friend of Moran's wrote his parents. He is officially listed as missing. Moran enclosed this picture of himself in the last letter his family received from him.

Success Seen For British in War of Nerves

CAIRO, Egypt, July 9.—(P)—Waging a war on nerves in the desert, Allied air and ground forces were reported tonight scoring a series of successes with continual patrol actions and aerial attacks on the positions of Field Marshal Edwin Rommel west of El Alamein.

British General Sir Claude J. E. Auchinleck is retaining the initiative he took when the present positions some 70 miles west of Alexandria were assumed. The enemy movements of the past week have been mainly to counter Allied threats to the Axis flank.

There are indications that Rommel would like a respite of two or three weeks before making another push toward the Nile but it was by no means certain that he would be allowed this much time to rebuild his strength.

Night sallies annoying. Night sallies by the British are especially annoying to the enemy, according to prisoners, as the Germans usually base their operations so every soldier may get a good night's sleep.

Not knowing when a bayonet party will charge out of the darkness at them and having to jump into slit trenches when Allied planes come over, they have anything but a restful night.

The British patrols, operating mostly at night, ranged the curving southern sector of the front at the head of an expansive flank between the Axis' extended flank and the Qattara depression.

The Axis position on the south extends some 30 or 40 miles to the west of a line drawn north and south through El Alamein, but there was no indication that the British ground forces had ventured to the westward along the southern line held by the forces of Marshal Rommel.

Dust Is Problem. The harassment of the westward portions of that sector was undertaken by the British fighter plane patrols.

Dust was a problem in the aerial operations but fighter-bombers attacked enemy positions on the Axis airfields at El Daba and scored direct hits on planes refueling there. Enemy vehicles dispersed over the desert were also hit.

A fighter patrol downed seven enemy aircraft on one mission and another Axis plane was destroyed by anti-aircraft fire.

Of three enemy aircraft raiding Alexandria last night, with no damage reported, one was shot down and another damaged by night fighters. In all the British reported six aircraft lost.

BRITISH CONSERVATIVE WINS. LONDON, July 9.—(P)—Major J. G. Morrison, Conservative, was elected to parliament today from Salisbury, easily defeating two independent opponents. It was the government's fifth victory in nine by-elections since March.

THE WATER'S FINE—Bingo doesn't mind his bath a bit, especially since three such attractive young ladies are giving him the tansorial works. Carolyn Ahlgren (left) and Olive Smith (right) have established a personal service bureau out in Druid Hills, and among their services is an agreement to look after pets. That's how Bingo came by this fancy shampoo and set. Little Betty Lester illustrates that it's no chore for the girls to take care of two clients satisfactorily at the same time.

Grave Threat To Stalingrad, Red Oil Mounts

MOSCOW, July 10 (Friday)—(P)—The massed steel might of the German armies in south Russia had driven to within 235 miles of industrial Stalingrad on the Volga today, but the determined Red armies held their ground firmly before gravely imperiled Voronezh and the upper reaches of the Don, the midnight Russian communique disclosed.

"During July 9 our troops continued their stubborn battles to the west of Voronezh and in the area of the town of Rossosh," the communique said.

Rossosh is 100 miles southwest of Voronezh and 150 miles directly east of the great steel city of Kharkov. On a tributary close to the Don, Rossosh is 90 miles northeast of Kursk—the first major point captured in this major German offensive of the year.

Last Rail Link. It lies only 235 miles northwest of Stalingrad, on the broad banks of the Volga, commanding the northern approaches to the oil-bearing Caucasus, which apparently is the German goal.

(Russian sources in London conceded the latest German advance was of the gravest importance.)

By the advance, the Germans went a long way toward establishing a new line extending northward from the Rostov area, the point of their deepest penetration last year, 300 miles northward to Voronezh.

The critical nature of the fighting in the Rossosh area was pointed up by the fact that the line lies on the Moscow-Voronezh-Rostov railway, the last remaining north-south link over which supplies are funneled to the desperately pressed armies of Marshal Semyon Timoshenko.

Railway Suggested Cut. The assertion that the fighting was "in the area of the town" suggested that the railway might either be cut or at least gravely threatened over a 100-mile length. Already, if not cut, the rail link probably was under attack of dive bombers or long-range artillery.

Three ships totaling 22,000 tons, a tanker and two transports, were declared sunk in the Baltic sea. Soviet submarines have been active in that "German lake" for nearly two weeks, disrupting German transport lines to their supply lines before Leningrad and the north. They also have interrupted the iron ore and timber traffic with Sweden.

Telling of the great battle on the upper Don, the communique said: "On one of the sectors west of Voronezh, fierce battles are continuing."

The communique said "no material changes took place on other sectors."

A huge mass of 800 German tanks was reported stalled on the west bank of the upper Don and Timoshenko was reported counterattacking boldly in an attempt to crush the enemy before he could cross the vital waterway in force.

McClatchey Urges Fight on 'Tyranny'

In a final organization meeting held to crystallize plans for defeating Eugene Talmadge in the September primaries, the executive committee of the Student Political League last night heard Devereaux F. McClatchey, Atlanta lawyer and member of the Atlanta Board of Education, predict a dismal future for Georgia schools unless gubernatorial tyranny is removed from the state.

Vote Prevention Plot Charged by Girls at GSCW

MILLEDGEVILLE, July 9.—Milledgeville today was rife with charges and counter-charges that Baldwin county's Talmadge faction is endeavoring to prevent 75 Georgia State College for Women students, opposed to the Governor, from voting in the September primary.

The controversy was precipitated several days ago when the Baldwin county board of registrars challenged the right of the students to vote here.

Acting in conjunction with a state-wide movement among college students, the GSCW girls, most of whom were seniors at the time, registered last fall during the celebrated Cocking-Pittman Easter row.

The students, backed by local anti-Talmadge groups, charged:

1. Superior Court Judge Joe Ben Jackson, of Gray, failed to appoint a board of registrars to succeed members whose terms expired January 1, until May 18, 15 days after the deadline for registration.

2. That failure of the board to

"If the suspension of your school goes into effect," McClatchey warned, "students will drop out in great numbers and many faculty members will go to other schools. New enrollments will be small. When you graduates go into business for a job, they will not have a good chance to get the job. All your life you will have reflections cast upon the value of your diploma. With a small student body, there won't be enough money to keep up the school activities. There will be a continuing spiral downward, at Georgia Tech and not for Talmadge: Save your State and Save your School," McClatchey said that Georgia students "recognized our situation in Georgia for what it is."

Standing in the auditorium of the Georgia Tech YMCA and surrounded by banners reading, "Let T stand for Tech and not for Talmadge: Save your State and Save your School," McClatchey said that Georgia students "recognized our situation in Georgia for what it is."

Scattered Showers

Forecast for Atlanta

Continued warm weather, with scattered showers in the afternoon and early evening, is the forecast for the Atlanta area today, Glen Jefferson, regional meteorologist, said yesterday.

The maximum yesterday was 91 degrees and the minimum was 71.

Missing Flyer's Bravery Told in Buddy's Letter

Atlanta parents of a young RAF flyer, Moran Morris, yesterday fought a growing fear that their boy, reported missing May 30 in raids over France, had lost his life.

Young Morris, a resident of Durant, Okla., and a former Golden Gloves boxing champion, was reported missing from the 133d Eagle Squadron of the RAF and a friend of his wrote his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Morris, of Chamblee, that he saw Pilot Morris' plane shot down.

"All we can do is hope that our boy landed safely and—at worst—was taken prisoner," Morris said yesterday.

In a letter to his pal's parents, Flying Officer Dale Taylor described the last fight of the valiant young American as he saw it.

"May 30 we were flying over France (St. Valery de Cruix) at about (censored)" wrote Taylor, "when we were engaged by six Jerries."

"It was all over in about three minutes. Moran had already shot down one and was diving to try and catch another when one came in from behind that he didn't see. Before I could get him it was all over, but I finally caught up and shot the Jerry down."

"Moran had a wonderful record here. His record was good enough that he would have been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross within the next month. There have been only a few given to Americans in this war."

Public Gives United War Work Fund Drive Hearty Approval

By AL SHARP.

"Where you going?" the man in front of the building wanted to know.

"Out to find out what people think of this United War Work Fund," was the answer.

"You mean that one that combines all of 'em? USO, Navy Relief, British War Relief and the rest?"

"Yeah, and the Atlanta War Recreation Committee, War Prisoners' Aid Committee, Russian War Relief, United China Relief, the Queen Wilhelmina Fund, Greek War Relief and American Field Service," we rattled off from the pamphlet.

"Heck, no one knows anything about all that stuff," he smiled.

Have Ideas on Topic.

But the man was wrong. It was fun to find that out. Mr. Mrs. and Miss Public are much more war conscious these days. You don't have to wave a flag in their faces to make them realize the country is at war.

Every one of the 11 persons interviewed knew why the campaign to raise $354,052 is going on and they had ideas on the subject. Which speaks very well for the publicity given the campaign.

The reasons varied, but every last one of the men and women were all for this all-out effort to raise money. "It avoids confusion," one thought. "Saves time and expense," said another. "Gives all agencies a fair deal," was a soldier's reaction. "Know who and what you're giving to," was another answer.

But let's visit those folks for a few minutes and listen to what they had to say about a money-raising campaign which has met with more enthusiasm in Atlanta than any other.

C. F. Kelley, electrician's mate (third class), United States Navy: "Of course, I'm for it. This means of collecting should be much better. But there's one thing I don't like about the setup. I've been in the Navy before and this time I've noticed all this mollycoddling soldiers and sailors. I'll admit that service men's clubs are needed in some of the real small towns near camps and posts that have few facilities for recreation. We appreciate all the people are doing for us, all right. Don't get the wrong idea. But I do think that soldiers and sailors, being grown men, would rather choose their recreation after it is provided for them. I'm for more relief at home—for the civilians, for the families. You see folks on the street who need it worse than we do. But that's off the subject. This combination will get more money for relief of families and I'm all for that."

M. R. Dodd, policeman: "I believe in this even more than in the Community Chest. It's the best way of obtaining money because it's a direct appeal instead of a solicitation. And you're not being pushed all the time by all the different agencies. You give once and you give to all. Another thing, a lot of folks are running around obtaining money under false pretenses and this cuts down on that. You know what you're giving for."

Jean Shirley, theater ticket seller: "Swell. Wonderful. We want to get this war over, and this is one way to help do it. Everyone should give as much as possible. Making our soldiers and sailors happy is part of the war effort, and we all ought to give, because if we don't win this war money isn't going to be any good anyway. I've got a nephew in and I certainly want him to have all the recreation he can. Yes, my boy friend's going in soon. Yes, that's another reason I'm so anxious for the boys to have a good time while they're training."

Flying Cadet Speaks. Aviation Cadet Edward Thompson, of Newark, N. J.: "Sure, it's a good idea. Heck, before they did this it was just a question of which agency had the best press agent. The Russians are fighting on our side, aren't they? So are the British. Why not give them an even break in collecting money for war relief? Some folks might think they'd rather give to certain agencies and not to others, but I'm for giving all an even break. Sure, we enjoy this USO club. If it wasn't for them, you never would meet any guys. People think guys in uniform ought to speak to each others. But you watch. They don't speak. You have to come over here to get together with some guy. Take this guy I'm playing pool with. You don't think we'd be playing pool together if we hadn't met in the USO, do you?"

Ruth Pittard, Office of Civilian Defense receptionist: "You know how much better it is to have a general office fund than to collect money for everything that comes up. Well, that's the way this United War Work Fund is going to work. I think it will be much better to contribute to one central agency for all of them. I know I like that better just as I like to pay into the general office fund and let it take care of anything which might come up."

Tommy Reeder, owner of sports goods store: "The thing that strikes me about the idea of combining collections for the agencies is that folks will give more. For instance, a fellow doesn't feel like giving all he can to one agency and then not feeling like giving like giving some money to another which pops up a few days later. This way a fellow can figure out how much he can give to war relief agencies and go ahead and give it to one and all at the same time."

Walter Lotz, chief yeoman, United States Maritime Service: "Best thing that ever happened. There was too much confusion. There were so many titles for agencies and so many solicitors that no one could keep up with them. Lots of people didn't know what to think of so many titles. Their confusion kept them from knowing what to do. Now they will know what it's all about and it should help in every way."

Doris Presnell, drug store cashier: "I think it's a fine idea because in this way all the different things will get some benefit. I'm really interested in recreation for the soldiers because I want my sweetheart to have as good time as he can in the Army. You know what I mean—there ought to be places he can go for entertainment when he isn't working."

Doris Presnell, Bill Crowley Sr., bank vice president: "You know how I feel about it with two boys in service. I think it's a fine idea. One of the best reasons is the savings in time and expenses. It saves the time of the solicitor and a contributor. And it certainly saves money that would be spent by all the agencies having their own representatives solicit."

Paul Ford, investment company: "We ought to do all we can for all of them, and this is the best way to do it. People are keeping up with developments these days and they know what's going on when a campaign like this is in progress. We just have to do all we can for all of them."

Private Walter L. Frye, of Pinehurst, N. C.: "Well, you know this is going a long way in equalizing the agencies' collections. I think that will be a good thing. People best way to do it. I don't get worried so much either. I remember when I was a painter in North Carolina. First the Red Cross would come by. I always gave them something. Then somebody else would be there. And I'd give them something. Pretty soon, though, it got kinda tough. You just couldn't give to everybody, so I had to start refusing some of 'em. This way it's much better."

Mayor's Veto Perils Harmon Liquor Permits

Only Two-Thirds Vote of Council Can Override Action.

Mayor Hartsfield yesterday moved to put Murray W. Harmon, one of the city's largest retail liquor dealers, out of business when he vetoed permits for renewal of retail liquor licenses at five places either operated by Harmon or in which Harmon has an interest.

The mayor assigned no reason for his action, but said he probably would file a statement with council before it is called to act on the vetoes at the July 20 session. It requires a two-thirds vote of council to override the vetoes.

Dies Publicly Apologizes For Vaughan Accusation

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—Chairman Dies, Democrat, Texas, of the house committee investigating un-American activities, publicly apologized today for having accused David B. Vaughan, board of economic warfare executive, of being "a sponsor of the American League for Peace and Democracy."

The accusation, Dies said in a statement inserted in the Congressional Record, was made "in a letter written by me on March 28, 1942," to Vice President Wallace, chairman of the BEW, and released to the press.

Dies said he would pay the attorney fees contracted by Vaughan "in the protection of his good name." (Vaughan filed a $75,000 libel suit against Dies.)

and to vote Harmon the license permits.

At the same time, Hartsfield announced the veto of a request for a permit by Charles C. Bambos to operate a liquor store at 465 Houston street, saying that establishment of a liquor store at that location would violate the spirit of a city ordinance that no stores be located on the same street within 1,500 feet of each other. Hartsfield said although the store entrance is on Houston street it is located on Boulevard to all intents and purposes.

the idea of the service bureau to Olive, but Olive says Carolyn's ideas made working out the details possible.

Worked Out Plans.

At any rate, the two girls who live next door to each other on Emory drive, had everything worked out before they even approached their parents with the idea. In fact they had even cut a stencil announcing the opening of the bureau and had notices ready to be distributed to houses in their neighborhood.

Their parents approved the bureau for several reasons. Carolyn's mother said she had heard a number of her neighbors talk about the additional responsibility ties they have been forced to assume in these times and they wondered how they could continue to run their homes and give proper attention to other necessary duties.

"We felt our girls could be doing a real service, and at the same time we thought this would be a far better way for them to spend the summer than just sitting around home or restlessly running about to parties," Mrs. Ahlgren said.

And so these two enterprising youngsters are busy with the personal service bureau. If it is as successful as early business would indicate, they probably have a career for themselves if they want it.

7 Witnesses Heard in Trial Of Nazi Spies

Secret Session Believed Dealing With Arrest Last Month.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—Government prosecutors, unfolding before a special trial commission a bizarre story of sabotage plotted in Berlin, appeared today to have reached the chapter dealing with the arrest by FBI agents of the eight Nazis who landed on the east coast from submarines last month.

The trial of the eight on charges of violating the articles of war continued to be cloaked in the deepest secrecy. However, the command issued a brief statement—the first official acknowledgment that the trial was under way—that gave this summary of yesterday's proceedings:

"The military commission convened at 10 a. m. The defendants, accompanied by their counsel, were brought before the commission, and will remain before the commission throughout the proceedings."

"The sessions will be closed, necessarily so, due to the nature of the testimony, which involves the security of the United States and the lives of its soldiers, sailors and citizens."

Differences Reported.

"The morning session was spent in disposing of preliminary procedural motions made by counsel for the defense and by counsel for the prosecution."

An hour after the overnight recess, a second statement was issued which disclosed that seven witnesses had been heard and that the defense counsel was given the opportunity to cross-examine each one. It explained also that every person appearing before the commission, except the prisoners, was sworn to secrecy.

There have been reports of a sharp difference of opinion among high officials as to whether anything at all should be said about the trial before its conclusion. This question was believed to have been before a White House conference today of President Roosevelt, Director Elmer Davis of the Office of War Information, and Secretary of War Stimson.

Apparently, the decision was to give out some information but leave to Major General Frank R. McCoy, president of the commission which is sitting in life or death judgment on the accused men, the question of what should be said.

Officials Participating.

The second statement from the military commission made public for the first time the full list of officials participating as counsel or assistants for the prosecution and the defense.

It listed the prosecution staff as Attorney General Biddle; Major General Myron C. Cramer, judge advocate general of the Army; Colonel E. Granville Munson; Colonel John M. Weir; Colonel Erwin M. Treusch; Major William T. Thurman; Oscar Cox, assistant solicitor general in the Justice Department; James H. Rowe, the assistant to the attorney general, and George T. Washington and Lloyd N. Cutler of the Justice Department.

The defense staff was named as Colonel Cassius M. Dowell, Colonel Kenneth Royall, Colonel Carl M. Ristine, Major Lauson H. Stone and Captain William Hummel.

The statement noted that the prosecution also was being assisted by J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director, and these officials of the FBI: Clyde A. Tolson, E. J. Connelley, D. M. Ladd, W. R. Thomas J. Donegan and C. J. Nelson.

detained several days for questioning.

Disclosing that Bahr, who was among them, had been arrested, the FBI said he was born in Kiosperleide, Germany, August 27, 1913, came to the United States with his family in 1926, and lived in Buffalo. His father was naturalized and he claims American citizenship.

After his education in this country, he went to Germany in 1938 as an exchange student and studied at a technical school at Hanover, receiving a degree.

Hoover's statement said the Gestapo taught Bahr in the art of spying, as well as writing with secret, invisible inks, and gave him various addresses in Spain, Switzerland and South America where he was to send the written results of his activities.

Had $7,000.

Bahr had $7,000 in United States currency. This, the FBI director said, was for transportation, the securing of military information, and "the loosening of tongues."

Bahr attended the Buffalo Technical High school from 1932 to 1934 and attained outstanding scholastic and athletic honors. He told the FBI he received the Dartmouth alumni award for leadership, character and achievement and was awarded a scholarship at Rensselaer, from which he was graduated in 1938 with a degree of bachelor of mechanical engineering.

In the fall of that year, when he went to Germany, he said he was assigned by Student Work, an official organization of the third Reich, which aids students. The FBI said it was a representative of this group which brought about a meeting between the brilliant student and the German espionage system.

turns up the clock to tick off What's Ahead in Fall fashion, 1942. We're not crystal gazing. We know! We've been consistently and persistently trail blazing first fashions FIRST for all the seasons past. Remember our House of Colour scoops . . . Parsley, Petunia, Peanut Butter, Lady Bug Red? Remember our Dressy Afternoons? Our Side-Saddle Draping? First Blacks of Summer? First Slacks and Culottes? This is the year of all years for you to know how to sift fashion from fad, to choose clothes that will survive the season. The year to pin your faith to a store that will continue to bring you only the authoritative, the assured fashions that belong in your life . . . and to bring them to you FIRST!

What Silhouettes?

The Spool Silhouette is flash news for dressy fur-trimmed coats!

The Body Beautiful is the important sculptured, figure-following silhouette.

The Peg Top is young, saucy . . . often modified into a side-drape. (Dress sketched already in Peacock Room!)

Watch for Sterling Silver Zippers!

The Commando Silhouette! Young, swaggering Boxy Jackets or Fingertip Coats.

Suits Are Super!

The colossal Suit Season ahead will make last year's all-out suit effort look like a piker. Real Suits are back . . . jacket, skirt and separate blouse.

"Furlough Suits" that go everywhere from morn to dawn by shifting blouses.

For this Super Suit Season you'll need a complete Blouse and Shirt Wardrobe!

What Colours?

A Bouquet of Blues . . . soft Bridal Blue, purplish Brunette Blue, Smoke Blue, Aero. Because your soldier loves you in any colour . . . just so it's Blue!

Purple, Patriotic as well as beautiful. With many dyes hard to get the Government flashes the go-ahead on this!

Watch Oyster Greys, American Beauty, Reds, Black alone, Black with Colour.

What's for College?

Pedal Pushers—Short Slacks, Newest news for cycle-circles!

Patchwork Touches! New and patriotic (remember Searlett patched up a dress out of her mother's portieres?)

Wooden Sole Shoes, much lighter than Hans Brinker's. Called Limber-Timers (with hinged soles). Only Davison's will have them in all the town!

There are only Hints! Many more ahead!

What Hats?

Berets are burgeoning! Wear it your way and make it your own.

Tip it down and look efficient! Push it back and look angelic!

Chinese Ambush 30,000 Japs in Kiangsi Province

CHUNGKING, China, July 9.—(AP)—A Japanese force of 30,000 has been ambushed and routed with the loss of at least 2,000 killed and wounded in heavy fighting in Kiangsi province, Chinese Central News dispatches reported tonight.

Fulton County Gets Additional Health Centers

13 Are Now in Operation; Center Hill To Get Unit.

Three additional county health centers, bringing the total to 13, were established in 1941, according to the annual report of the Fulton County Health Department issued yesterday by Commissioner Roy W. McGee.

The new centers were established, says the report, in Hapeville, College Park and Ben Hill, and a building for a fourth center to begin operation soon has been rented in Center Hill. Only the Buckhead area is now without such a center, it continued, and plans are under way to remedy this situation through co-operation with the Buckhead Civic Club.

The report said the department follows a general policy that preventive medicine should be explained, and demonstrated when necessary to everyone at public expense.

All told, the Chinese unofficially reported nearly 5,000 Japanese casualties in various fighting sectors in recent engagements.

Meanwhile, the headquarters of U. S. Lieutenant General Joseph W. Stilwell announced that United States bombers left eight fires raging in Hankow, Japan's main base in the interior of China, in a raid carried out Monday despite adverse weather.

Rail Loss Admitted.
It was the third raid against the Yangtze river port since July 1. Oil storage points and wharves were attacked.

The Chinese acknowledged today that the Japanese were in complete control of the 450-mile Chekiang-Kiangsi railway but reported that Chinese armies counterattacking in Kiangsi province had recaptured three cities, Nanchang, Hwang and Poyang.

The major action as told by Central News dispatches was a battle of Chinese forces on the eastern bank of the Kan river below the Kiangsi-Hunan railway against a force of 30,000 Japanese sent to entrap and capture Sinkan.

The news dispatches indicated the Chinese trap was sprung somewhere in the 20 miles between Sinkan and Changshu.

Walled City Retaken.

In fighting in eastern Kiangsi province, the Chinese news accounts said, the walled city of Nanchang was recaptured after sustained attacks lasting several days, with the Japanese retreating to the northwest toward Linchuan, 40 miles above Nanchang. The invaders suffered more than 800 casualties in that fighting, the Chinese said.

At the same time, they declared, Hwang, 32 miles west of Nanchang and 45 miles southeast of Sinkan, was recaptured, with the Japanese leaving some 500 dead in the city.

The Chinese high command announced that the city of Poyang, across Poyang lake from Nanchang, was recaptured July 3 after a night-long battle in which it said the Japanese suffered 500 casualties.

In another area of fighting, at the foot of the Taihang mountains on the Shansi-Honan front, the high command declared enemy forces en route to reinforce stalled units were forced to flee, leaving 800 dead.

Shelled Peanut Demand Is Seen

The Department of Agriculture today reported the demand for shelled peanuts had increased due to a rather heavy demand for peanut butter by government agencies.

Both Spanish 2's and runner 2's were reported hard to find. Spanish No. 1 peanuts were quoted at 10.60 to 11 cents. No. 1 runners ranged from 10 to 10 1-2 cents.

South Georgia and south Alabama farmers were said to be experiencing difficulty with grass. Virginia and North Carolina fields were free of grass but harvesting in those states may be delayed due to late planting.

The Army and Navy in Georgia

Ol' Dobbin's comeback from the role of "forgotten mount of World War II" has taken a new spurt at Fort Benning, Ga., according to Colonel Stephen B. Massey, post quartermaster, who says that there are now four times as many horse-drawn vehicles being used for administrative work as there were a few months ago.

Before the rubber situation became acute, there were only six or fewer horse-and-wagon combines in daily use at Benning. Now, there are 24 wagons being used every day for hauling pine poles on the post proper in the execution of housekeeping chores. Reports for the Army as a whole indicate that there are now over 1,500 wagons being used to replace motor vehicles for administrative use in Army camps, posts and stations.

The vehicles being replaced by the Quartermaster Corps through out the Army are expected to save at least 315,000 pounds of rubber a year. Most of these vehicles are of the 1½-ton variety that were formerly used to collect trash, ashes and garbage and haul freight and coal.

Existing facilities in the Infantry school stables at the fort were found to be excellent, and the only limit right now to the number of motor vehicles being replaced by horse-drawn carriers is the number of wagons available. All wagons at Benning that are in usable condition are in daily operation, and many of them had not been seen in many years. The 48 mules and 11 draft horses in the Benning stables are used for most of the hauling, but on occasion, some of the 176 riding horses quartered at the post are also hitched up to a wagon. In the latter case, extreme care is exercised to see that none of the fine riding qualities of the horse are injured. The riding horses are used mostly for light loads, such as hauling laundry back and forth to the cleaning plants.

Because of the mechanization of the cavalry throughout the Army, many horses are available, and most of them have been reclassified as light draft animals. The Quartermaster Corps is now supplying harnesses and other equipment that has been lying idle in warehouses for many years, and the substitution of Ol' Dobbin and his cart for motor vehicles on posts such as Benning will probably continue as more wagons are made available.

COLLAPSIBLE CANTEN
DESIGNED TO SAVE SPACE
Soldiers on the fighting fronts must have their drinking water and it requires much cargo space to ship supplies abroad, so the Quartermaster Corps has designed a new "collapsible" five-gallon water can that saves from 70 to 80 per cent of space originally required to ship this vital needed item, the Fourth Corps Area quartermaster announced today.

The newly designed can is made of two separate sections, body and cover which can easily be "nested" while the handles and closures fit within the body. Upon arrival at the destination the can is easily assembled in a few seconds. Like the old type container, the new can is painted the regular olive drab color and is rectangular in shape. It is leakproof and freeze-proof and has three handles, so arranged that it can be carried by one or three men.

WILLIAM F. VOYLES
ON DESTROYER DUTY
William Frederick Voyles, store keeper, second class, former employee of the Alexander-Seewald Company, is stationed on a destroyer in the Pacific. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Tobe Voyles, of Jacksonville, Fla., he was in the Naval Reserve before being called to active duty last January. His wife resides in New Jersey.

4 GEORGIANS ACCEPTED AS GLIDER PILOTS
Four Georgians accepted as glider applicants at the Fighter Command School Base at Orlando, Fla., are: Charles R. Wyrosdick, graduate of Oglethorpe University and former reporter for The Constitution; William J. Cook, Valdosta; Joseph C. Shipley Jr., Waycross; and Clarence L. Madden Jr., Savannah.

Captain Whitman W. Bowers, 1214 Cumberland road, former landscape architect, is now in training at the Air Forces Officer Training School, Miami Beach, Florida. Raleigh L. Shaw, son of Mr.

James B. Beauchamp, 24, son of Mrs. T. Beauchamp, Clarksville, Ga., and Earl G. Goodman, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Linton V. Goodman, 1313 Morningside drive, N. E., both corporals in the United States Marine Corps, are now stationed at Parris Island, S. C., where they are members of the post headquarters of the post troops.

Worry, Cold, working too hard, or over-eating or drinking may create an excess of acids and overload your Kidneys so that they need help to flush out poisonous wastes that might otherwise undermine your health.

Help Kidneys Remove Acids
Nature provides the Kidneys to clean and purify your blood and to remove excess acids. The Kidneys contain about nine million tiny tubes or filters through which the body pumps blood about 200 times an hour, night and day, so it's easy to see that they may get tired and slow down when overloaded. Sixteen years ago a practicing physician's prescription called Cystex was made available to the public through drug stores, making it easy and inexpensive to help those suffering from non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles in these three simple ways: 1. Help the Kidneys remove excess acids which may become poisoning and irritating. 2. To palliate burning and stinging of the urinary passages, and bladder irritation. 3. Help the Kidneys flush out wastes which may become poisonous if allowed to accumulate, thus aiding nature in stimulating an increase of energy, which may easily make you feel years younger.

Guaranteed Trial Offer
Usually, in non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder disorders the very first dose of Cystex goes right to work helping the Kidneys flush out excess acids, poisons and wastes. And this cleansing, purifying Kidney action, in just a day or so, may easily make you feel younger, stronger and better than years. An iron clad guarantee insures an immediate refund of all your money unless you are completely satisfied. Get 7 boxes from your druggist today for only 35c.

Admiral Nimitz Is Decorated By Naval Chief

Distinguished Service Medal Bestowed Upon Pacific Commander.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9.—(P)—The Navy disclosed today that the Distinguished Service Medal had been conferred upon Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the United States Pacific fleet.

Admiral Nimitz was decorated by Admiral Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet, at a short but impressive ceremony aboard a United States warship.

The honor was conferred for exceptionally meritorious service since the outbreak of the war with Japan, particularly in connection with the battles of the Coral Sea and Midway Island. American Naval forces dealt heavy blows to Japanese sea power in both those encounters.

In a one-minute speech of acceptance, Admiral Nimitz said the achievements behind the award were due to "the devoted service of the men under my command—the task force commanders, the junior officers and the rank and file—a loyal and devoted crew."

Post Adjutant Named at Benning

FORT BENNING, Ga., July 9.—

(P)—Major J. D. Rosenberger Jr., assumed the position of post adjutant at Fort Benning under orders from the adjutant general's office in Washington.

Major Rosenberger, whose home is in Birmingham, in civilian life was secretary-treasurer of the Birmingham Trunk Factory.

He came to Fort Benning from San Jose, Cal., where he was assistant adjutant for the Seventh Army Corps and acting adjutant for three months. At San Jose he was assistant to Colonel Norris A. Wimberley, who left Fort Benning last May.

Before being called to active duty in January, 1941, Major Rosenberger was active in the Reserve Officers' Association. He was vice president of the Fourth Corps Area Council and in 1937-38 was state president of the Alabama association, the year in which that state led the nation in numbers of reserve officer members.

pensive cowboy outfit he's worn exclusively for seven years for an Air Corps uniform.

The singing star of western movies proudly said last night that he had been accepted as an enlisted man and instructed to report to Bolling Field, Washington, D. C., August 1. Since he's 32, he can't fly, so he's not certain what his duties will be.

His enlistment will mean retirement to pasture for his famous white horse, Champ.

Willkie To Seek Permit To Visit Battlefields

NEW YORK, July 9.—(P)—Wendell L. Willkie said today he would seek official consent to visit the battlefields of Australia, China, Russia and other United Nations. He did not indicate in what capacity he would make such a trip—as a civilian or an official observer—but it was understood he wanted to see at first hand conditions in the war areas.

ATLANTA, GA., JULY 10, 1942.

The Law's Delay

In the winter of 1941 a state patrolman halted an automobile for violating a traffic regulation near Ringgold, Georgia.

The driver of the car shot the patrolman dead.

He escaped and was, captured by the combined efforts of police, sheriffs and patrolmen.

The murder was cold-blooded and without cause as the patrolman was talking with the driver about the traffic violation and had made no move toward his own gun.

The captured murderer proved to be an escaped convict.

That case still drags through the courts on one technicality after another although the man's guilt is not open to doubt.

Five dates of execution have been postponed.

This case is an excellent one to illustrate why criminals dare commit murder. They have learned they usually can count on delays across a period of years and perhaps, at the end, a commutation when the murder has been forgotten. It illustrates, too, why respect for law and the processes of law is not all it might be.

Registering Children

A request from the Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers, the State Department of Education and the Citizens' Defense Committee that children of the state be registered has been granted by executive order of the Governor.

It is a proper move and one in which all parents should join wholeheartedly. All children will be fingerprinted and supplied with identification tags. Children up to 18 years of age will be registered.

Now that war is on us and might bring about some great disaster, the need for registering children is obvious. Were there no war, it still would be an excellent idea. The committees and the Governor are to be commended for adopting it and setting up a fund to finance it.

Proper Recognition

At last due recognition is in store for the unsung heroes of the sea—the Merchant Marine sailors.

Virtually overlooked by the government in the last war, the Maritime Commission finally has awakened and created a distinguished service medal to be awarded those showing meritorious service in line of duty.

Braving attacks by submarines alone warrants creation of the medal, for these seamen engage daily in almost as dangerous and important a role as members of our fighting forces encounter against the enemy on actual battlefronts.

"Delivering the goods," as their task might appropriately be called, to far-off United States and Allied outposts is no sea-going pleasure for perils await them below and above the surface at almost every turn of the wheel.

Already many stories have reached us of these sailors' bravery while under fire in the Atlantic and Gulf—and probably many more will be told now—so it's fitting we at last have come to realize their vital part in the war effort.

Mrs. Miniver

Like so many other great fictional characters, Mrs. Miniver, created by Jan Struther two years ago, in reality is a universal, representing not one self-possessed creature, but a personality with whom all mothers living through a war era may identify themselves.

The fictional Mrs. Miniver was a well-to-do English woman whose life in the late 1930s was transformed by the war. She may have been any English woman or any American woman. For war is concerned not only with soldiers and machines but with routines, and values, and outlooks.

English society, even American society for that matter, was not as profoundly changed by World War I as one might have expected. This is shown in the thinking and the habits of Mrs. Miniver. Then came World War II.

Mrs. Miniver says: "... I can think of a hundred ways already in which the war has brought us to our senses. But it oughtn't to need a war to make a nation paint its curbstones white, carry rear-lamps on bicycles, and give all its slum children a holiday in the country. And it oughtn't to need a war to make us talk to each other in buses, and invent our own amusements in the evenings, and live simply, and eat sparingly, and recover the use of our legs, and get up early in the sun rise. However, it has needed one; which is about the severest criticism our civilization could have.

"I wonder whether it's too much to hope that afterwards, when all the horrors are over, we shall be able to conjure up again the feelings of these first few weeks, and somehow rebuild our peace-time world so as to preserve everything of war which is worth preserving? What we need is a kind of non-material war museum, where, instead of gaping at an obsolete uniform in a glass case, we can press a magic button and see a vision of ourselves as we were while this revealing mood was freshly upon us."

Americans will see in Mrs. Miniver some of the transformations bound to come into our lives as war days lengthen. How rapidly this change already has been. Because we are so adaptable, we adjust to the new conditions, sometimes without knowing later whether the changes were real or chimerical.

"Put down somewhere," says Mrs. Miniver, "everything you see or hear which will help later on to recapture the spirit of this tragic, marvelous, and eye-opening time; so that, having recaptured it, we can use it for better ends."

How About Our Own?

A Monday dispatch from Washington, quoting a nurse who served on Bataan and Corregidor and who now is back in the United States, says that wounded Japanese prisoners were happy to reach American hospitals in that area and more so surprised at the fair treatment they received.

We're not surprised to hear such a report, Ann Agnes Bernatitus, of Exeter, Pa., instead that's just about what we'd expect. You see, even the Japs know we're not a ruthless nation; we can be tough, of course, and probably will be before the war is over, but as far as handing out unfair treatment to prisoners, well—that's not like the United States.

We wish you could have given us some information, Miss Bernatitus, on how our boys are faring in Japanese hands. It would be nice to know they are receiving the same attention, but maybe that's hoping for too much. Knowing the Japs, I guess we'd be satisfied to learn our boys are being treated half as good—anyway we pray such is the case.

Georgia Editors Say:

YOUR MERCHANT HELPS.

(From The Dalton News.)

As time goes on, your retail store will have a changed appearance. There will be less goods on the shelves in many instances. Some items will vanish altogether, and some will be extremely scarce. In time, widespread rationing of a large number of necessities may be put into effect. There are the inevitable result of war's enormous demands on America's productive resources.

But there is one thing that will not change in your retail store—and that is its management's ambition to serve you to the limit of its ability. Its policy will be guided by the competitive urge. Tomorrow, as the past, it will be seeking ways and means to earn your patronage.

In addition, retailing is now carrying on extremely important special activities on behalf of the consumer. It is conferring with manufacturers and others in developing suitable substitutes to take the place of priority goods and materials. In the food field, the chains and other retailers have taken the lead in promoting the national nutrition program—a program which is backed by the government, and whose purpose is to help build a stronger, healthier country. In every sound activity on behalf of consumer welfare, retailers are always at the forefront.

War will force immense changes in the home life of the American people. We will have to forego most luxuries, and use a minimum of many necessities. Retailing's job is to help us in making these difficult adjustments in our living standards.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

AMERICAN TANKS WASHINGTON, July 9.—Any remaining doubt as to the performance of the new tanks in Libya has been eliminated by the statement of the new chief of Army ordnance, Major General Levin H. Campbell Jr. It has been whispered about the 28-ton M-3 type, which have been given the name of General Grants in Egypt, developed grave defects. The fact that its 75-mm. gun is mounted at the side in such a way as to permit firing only in a limited arc unless the tank is turned was cited as a fault.

None of these and other reports, publication of which had caused some public concern, the Army finally authorized the chief of ordnance to make a statement of the facts. Not only did our tanks live up to all the expectations we had placed in them, General Campbell revealed, but they more than held their own against the heavier 60-ton German Mark IVs. Since the general's statement our other confirming evidence of our tank performance has come in the form of Associated Press dispatches from Cairo, written some days ago but held up for military reasons by the censor. Also, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts, has returned from Libya with personal accounts of his participation in the desert fighting.

The Germans, Senator Lodge disclosed, were never able to get closer than 2,000 yards to a fleet of our tanks guarding a certain sector. We definitely knocked out nine of the Germans without suffering a single American tank casualty, although one of our tanks was struck at least five times.

Not all this may be all inclusive, but it is a pretty good indicator of the stamina of materials we are using for the war. And the tanks that took part in the Libyan battle are our 1940 model, rather than the latest designs we are running off the assembly lines.

SHELL VELOCITY Most of the structural deficiencies that have been corrected in the M-4, which is the same type but a later model. The latest tank, for example, has its 75-mm. gun mounted on a central turret and can swing around a full circle. It has other improvements, including cast and welded armor instead of riveted plates. Also, the velocity of its shells has been stepped up, with two types of ammunition used—one for long range and the other for shorter distance firing.

What happened to our tanks employed by the British in Libya is attributed to the ingenuity of Field Marshal Rommel, leader of the German Afrika Korps, rather than any failure of the armored vessels to perform. Rommel laid a clever ambush, according to General Campbell. He half-buried the German mobile 88-mm. guns, camouflaged them, and then lured the British into a trap. When the British brought their tanks within range they were all but wiped out. Out of a total of some 300 operating in one action only about 70 escaped.

The element of surprise was the decisive factor. No inferiority of material or equipment was involved. The heavy half-buried German guns simply did not afford a target that Allied tanks could compete with.

Not all of the details have yet been made public, but it would not be surprising in the end to learn that the British lost the deciding point in the battle of Libya. Before the British lost so many of their tanks, the fighting was swaying back and forth with neither side showing any particular advantage. All of the official communiques coming from Libya indicated that the British were not worried over the situation.

CHURCHILL REACTION Prime Minister Churchill himself has told of his amazement at the fall of Tobruk. It seems that he was no more prepared for the debacle than anyone else.

Our ordnance experts believe that we are not being outdistanced in any field of war activity. Before being drawn into the conflict we had two years to study what the German and British war machines had developed. We not only had specimens, but we had observers on the front watching the performance of equipment.

Since then the search for improved weapons has been continuing. Engineers, scientists and military technicians are all co-operating in a superhuman effort. An elaborate body of scientists, under the chairmanship of President James B. Conant, of Harvard, is working within the framework of the Army and Navy chiefs of staff. What they are doing will be a remarkable story when it can be written.

Already the Office of Scientific Research and Development, the agency through which the Conant group works, has been instrumental in developing at least 100 devices, formulas and methods which have been accepted in the war effort. Orders amounting to $270,000,000 have been placed by the War Department for a new explosive which the group has perfected. Other orders aggregating $360,000,000 have been placed for unidentified items developed by the same group.

The superficial facts regarding these activities were revealed recently by the House Appropriations Committee in awarding the scientists $23,000,000 for research.

The scientific agency is the American counterpart of the organization Hitler built up a decade ago to prepare for the war holocaust he has since unleashed on the world. Our scientists and engineers are confident of their ability to beat the Germans on every turn. We are continually improving on their own devices.

Our tanks that are now shown to have stood up so well in Libya are merely a sample of the other equipment we are turning out. The thing seems certain: We are going to have the best equipped Army the world has ever known, once it gets into action.

The Pulse of the Public

The Constitution invites expression of opinion by its readers. This column is open for that purpose. All communications must be signed and all are subject to editing for conservation of space. Brevity makes argument effective and impels attention.

WANTS GOVERNOR TO RETAIN POWERS

Editor, Constitution: I notice in yesterday's edition the statement that Ellis Arnall, a candidate for the office of Governor of Georgia, does not wish the Governor of Georgia to have any great powers in the future. As a citizen of this state and a life-long resident, I believe that it would be a great mistake for our state to vote to strip our Governor of his powers, especially in these war times. We need a strong, economical man like Eugene Talmadge to lead our state. Economy is a large enough platform for any candidate to stand on. More economy in our state government means more help for our armed forces and more money with which to buy war bonds.

Our noble President realized that an executive must have things centralized and well organized during troublesome war times. Therefore he had congress confer upon him certain powers extraordinary in order that the nation might work well together in war production and might thus bring about an ultimate victory for the United States with more speed and less lost motion. Just so, each state must have its state government well organized under a strong, able head so that in these times of emergency things may be done well and quickly without too much red tape. All speed and co-operation to Governor Talmadge, a capable leader for our state, a man who will look after his people with the strength of his honest convictions and will not stoop to be bribed by any group of so-called reformers. Our noble President cannot possibly be in all 48 states at one time, for he is needed in Washington to co-ordinate the whole nation. So he is looking to each state to elect its own strong, capable Governor who will represent his own state and will see to it that each state is well protected in time of emergency and is aiding with all its might in the war work.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mr. Ralph Jones, whose column, Silhouettes, usually appears in this space, will be absent from the office for the next several weeks. Until his return this space will be filled with letters to the Editor and other features.

Governor Talmadge has shown that he is wholeheartedly in harmony with the country's war program. He has shown this by his word and deed. Also, he has shown this by sending Herman, his only boy, to help this country on a warship. How, may I ask, is Mr. Arnall helping his country? Main victory over "War It" Mere handshaking won't win the war for us.

Governor Talmadge has seen to it that the state paid the teachers the state share of their salaries. And, as Governor, he seems promised to do it, but did not. Governor Talmadge is the only Governor of Georgia, as far as I know, who has paid the teachers in spot cash from the state funds. Is he helping the schools and education in Georgia? Of course he is helping them. He has and is practicing economy in state affairs and resources. Economy—conservation is, as I understand it, one of the foremost teachings in the educational world today.

MRS. GEORGE CONNELL, Atlanta.

SUGGESTS COUNCIL OF STATES FOR WAR.

Editor, Constitution: Though commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy, waging a world-wide war, and clothed with unlimited emergency powers for its duration, President Roosevelt has shown a marked respect for state sovereignty, only infringing upon it when absolute necessity arises. His attitude encourages the writer to suggest the following suggestion: It is that the President exercises his unquestioned prerogative and creates for the duration an association whose membership shall include every state in the Union. It might be called the "All States Council." Its permanent headquarters would be centrally located, unpretentious and inexpensive. Likewise its half-dozen or so regional offices and room suites are to be strategically located for quarterly and emergency uses for a day or two.

These are only suggestions, and are flexible to conform to the final setup. The writer believes that the President's administration heads will at once recognize the tremendous possibilities for war aid, in offense and defense and preparedness in this contacting every section of this country. For one thing, it would tend to heal labor

Rubber Shortage

NEW YORK, July 9. The rubber shortage is one situation in which my dismal disposition keeps me well wadded through pounds of documents, starting "way last January, and much of the information and opinion sent out of Washington, the sum of which is a great confusion. Never has it been harder for our people to form an intelligent idea on any subject, but the one safest way for all of us is to decide that we are absolutely up against it, we have done with blaming for the time being at least and save and give up rubber. I have four old tires and tubes, did ahead 10 pounds of other rubber which I intend to pile right away and may be able to discover more. It has been said that the reclamation yield of certain kinds of mats is very low, but I string along with Harold Jakes in his rejoinder that every little helps and that many of these mats will serve better on ships than in our cars and homes or offices.

Probably our government, which talks, and often prattles, with a thousand tongues, did mislead idea and maybe we were deliberately deceived by the hook-up of the gas shortage and the rubber shortage, but certainly by this time nobody has an excuse for a cheery view of either problem. Perhaps our rulers should have said frankly in the first place that the gas-conservation project, aside from the eastern seaboard, actually was intended to save rubber, but that makes no difference.

Needless Mileage

In Texas and Oklahoma there is plenty of fuel, but no more rubber to waste than there is anywhere else. In the east the lack of both should need no explanation, and even if we could get pipe lines and barge lines in operation on a scale sufficient to our needs we would only burn up our tires that much faster. In other words the transportation of gasoline by railroad or highway tank car for driving that is not absolutely necessary just puts that much greater strain on the railroads or burns up that much more rubber and diverts manpower from the main job. Some of those highway tanks have as many as 22 enormous tires grinding away at high speeds to deliver gas over long hauls to people who want to use it for needless mileage in their cars to the further diminution of the national store.

There are those Jesse Jones or Standard Oil or both failed or sulking during the time when we should have been laying it in. It isn't worth arguing now whether the British neglected to stock up and wasted some of their rubber on hand or whether the Russians did more or less the same. We have got to have rubber to fight this war and the enemy is winning the war up to now. And if he finally wins it altogether we will do without a lot more than rubber. If Hitler wins, this country not only will be a vassal state, but it will be a vassal state of a vassal state. The enemy is winning the war up to now. And if he finally wins it altogether we will do without a lot more than rubber. If Hitler wins, this country not only will be a vassal state, but it will be a vassal state of a vassal state. The enemy is winning the war up to now. And if he finally wins it altogether we will do without a lot more than rubber.

Insult to Patriotism

He certainly isn't saying that to punish the middle west or make any section "war conscious" and we have got to resist all temptation to sulk because Marshall Field, a hothouse American who never showed much interest in his country before, has suddenly gone to the front. He has suddenly proclaimed that this is his war. It isn't his or President Roosevelt's or the New Deal's war, although between them they manage to antagonize most of our people and impugn the patriotism of all who hope for a speedy end to the war. He has suddenly proclaimed to December 7 that somehow we must manage to draw a pass. If they lose the war all of us lose it and the President certainly isn't trying to help Hitler, anyway, in crying up the rubber shortage.

We have every reason to be so short, including the maddening stupidity of some fool in New England who stored a great amount, about one-tenth of our total reserve stock-pile, as I believe I read at the time, in a single concentration, where it went up in smoke and fumes in one great factory fire.

God only knows what they are driving at, this New Deal, when they insult a patriotic people whose almost every family has one or more men under arms, by granting a special privilege of both rubber and fuel to union agents so that they may fool around from plant to plant and project to project to extort a share of the workers' wages. It is a disgusting and insulting gesture of contempt for the very people who make up the nation that the actual waste on these foul robbers and political agents of a corrupt party will not be much and meanwhile we have got to have that rubber.

troubles by invoking local state influence. Far the greatest aid though it could possibly extend the United Nations and the entire Western Hemisphere, especially the east coast of our own United States, whose entire defense resources are now almost wholly devoted to a centrally located, unpretentious and inexpensive. Likewise its half-dozen or so regional offices and room suites are to be strategically located for quarterly and emergency uses for a day or two.

These are only suggestions, and are flexible to conform to the final setup.

Atlanta, Ga.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

THE SYMBOLS OF OUR BELIEF You will recall that when Paul and Silas were cast into prison, after having been beaten by the racketeer-dominated politicians in Philippi, there was an earthquake and the jailer was terrified into thinking his prisoners had escaped. Paul, hearing the man's exclamations, called to him not to harm himself but to bring a light. The man brought the light.

Then it was that a realization of all the rottenness of his own position; of the crooked judges who had sent the men there as prisoners; of the corrupt system of government in the city, came over the man.

He fell on his knees and said: "Sirs, what must I do to be saved?" And they said to him: "Believe on the Lord Jesus and thou shalt be saved, and thy house."

There are a great many men, great and small, asking themselves that question today, "Lord, what shall I do to be saved?"

There is a great earthquake going on in the world. It is, in some parts of the world, shaking down the prisons of men's souls. It is crushing out hope and life in some parts of the world. There is darkness and fear in most of the world.

Men are finding that many of their old beliefs, old allegiances; their old cynicism about their duty to government and to self, are not enough. They are crying out, in uncertainty and fear, "What shall I do to be saved?"

The symbols of our belief are undergoing the most severe sort of testing.

OUR OWN APPLICATIONS One can apply it to the Axis state political race, where certain nations, to this country, to the issues, and to almost any phase of life.

There is a testing of the symbols of our belief. What shall we do to be saved?

The answer, of course, can be the same as was delivered that fearful night in the broken jail. If one believes in the Lord Jesus one believes in honor, integrity, honesty, decency, and in building for the future.

As has been said here before, one reason why Christianity has been so opposed by every totalitarian government from the time of the Roman totalitarian governments down to the ones of today, is that Christianity is the religion of the individual. It says to the individual to believe, to be free, to render unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's and unto God the things which are God's. It means freedom of will.

No one may state the case of freedom without stating its weaknesses. It means freedom to make mistakes; to learn by experience. Freedom, often lapses into license. We have seen that in this country, where we have allowed our attitude toward government to lapse into license. We have come to expect a sort of rottenness in government.

We expect a certain amount of graft on road contracts, on building, on all deals. We shrug it off. Then, all of a sudden, we saw our people going off to fight and to die. The dying time has come and people everywhere are asking: "What shall we do to be saved?"

IF THEY HAVE THEIR WAY If the Nazis and the Japanese have their way with the world, all humanity will be reduced to the status of empty-eyed, soulless animals, directed and herded and driven by their masters.

They already have shown us, in the conquered countries, what they expected the world to be like when they have conquered it. The Nazis have their symbols of belief.

They teach their young they are the master, super race. They teach the highest conception is Siegfried warring against the gods. They teach a pagan conception and deny the gentleness and the individualism of Christianity.

The Japanese teach a mask of politeness that masks black treachery; they teach they must free themselves from any dependence on the world they will rule. Nothing in their symbol of belief holds any hope for the individual beyond that of a robot.

President Roosevelt's "Four Freedoms" are appealing. They are not enough, perhaps. They may not even be understood by many.

But a free speech, free religious worship, freedom from want, and freedom from fear, do a rather good job of setting down man's fundamental wishes and desires.

No man may worship the Lord Jesus unless he is free. And to be free he must free his soul from participation and belief in anything shoddy, crooked, or corrupt.

What shall we do to be saved? Examine your symbols of belief.

"Better Lose a Million Men

In One Year Than Four Million in Four Years"

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

The Japanese have won every land battle and conquered an empire. The German have won every campaign except the battle against Russia's winter.

Our side has consistently lost from first to last—except our naval battles against Japan, won by airplanes, and England's contests with the Italians.

This record of disaster should impel us to examine our military policy, compare it with the policy of our enemies, and try to discover the basic cause of our failure.

We are urged to be patient and trust everything to our leaders, since we cannot form intelligent opinions without their knowledge of conditions. But it is our right and duty to have opinions and demand explanation of failure, for if the record of tragedy continues only a little while, we shall face the end of our world and the end of all life that is worth living.

Why does the enemy always win? Why do we always lose? It was treachery and surprise at first. We didn't have the weapons or the fighting men. We all understand that. But what about the times when we had the men and the weapons available? What about Tobruk?

Tobruk tells the whole story. It was typical of our military policy from the beginning—playing safe; being cautious; waiting for a daring enemy to strike.

Wars are no won that way—this war least of all.

Our enemies win by equipping and training men for each particular task; giving them superiority in weapons, and then daring everything and driving ahead to victory despite losses. They never underestimate the opposition. They do no wishful thinking. They expect the worst and provide the force to overwhelm it. They strike with "incredible speed" and disregard all risks and obstacles.

We have thought and talked in terms of defense until it has given us a ruinous mental attitude. We scatter our forces and wait to counter the enemy's blows. We avoid great risks. We play it safe. And while playing it safe we lose the world.

Our leaders must think in new terms, or we must have new leaders. We must attack and attack and attack; we must dare everything and never stop hitting, for heroic defense in this war is heroic suicide.

A BRIEF CHARACTER SKETCH OF CLARENCE DUNCAN

Candidate for County Commissioner (Chastain Bracket)

Clarence Duncan was born and reared on a farm in Fulton county, and is descended from early Scotch-Irish settlers. There is instilled as a part of his very nature the traditional thrift and economy so characteristic of these early settlers. Five generations of his ancestors sleep beneath the sod of this county.

He was married to Miss Annie Dabney, in 1919, a member of a pioneer Atlanta family. He is the father of three sons and one daughter. The eldest son is now serving in the Army Air Forces; the second son, who is an Eagle Scout, is a student of North Georgia College; the third son, also an Eagle Scout, is a high school student, and is spending the summer as a member of the camp staff at Bert Adams Boy Scout Camp. His daughter is a graduate of Rhinehardt College, and is an employee of the Southern Bell Telephone Company. Mr. Duncan is a self-made man, having spent his entire business career in Fulton county, where he has been most successful in the wholesale and retail tire business. Served in World War No. 1.

Clarence Duncan served his country in World War No. 1 as a volunteer member of the U. S. Naval Reserve Force, and was honorably discharged at the close of that conflict; he has been a member of the American Legion since 1919. He now holds a commission as captain in the Georgia State Guard, where he has commanded the outstanding Third Battalion of District No. 1 for almost two years. Under his command this battalion has received excellent military training that will enable them to protect the lives, homes and property of our citizens in this great country in the event of an enemy attack.

Active in Church and Fraternal Orders

Clarence Duncan has been a member of the Baptist church for 33 years, where he has served as deacon, Sunday school superintendent and director of young peoples' work. He is past master of his Masonic Blue Lodge. Past master of the Fifth District Masonic convention and member

War Perils Democratic Margin

By GEORGE GALLUP.

PRINCETON, N. J., July 9.—Here is a factor which will worry the high command of the Democratic party as it studies prospects for the November elections.

If the men in the armed forces, now totaling an estimated three million, do not take the time or trouble to fill out absentee voter ballots, it is the Democrats who will suffer.

In fact, the absence of these young men may spell the difference between victory and disaster for the Democrats in many closely contested election races.

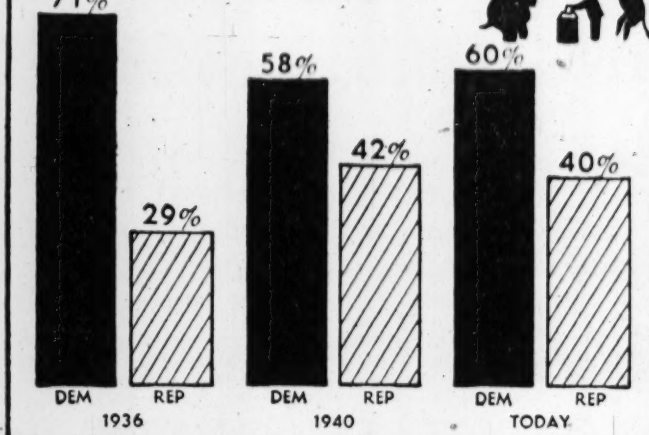

Modern sampling polls, being analytical by their very nature, can discover how all age levels voted in the last election and how they plan to vote in forthcoming elections. From such analysis comes the fact that men between the ages of 21 and 35—the draft age—are predominantly Democratic in their political party sentiment, and indeed have been since the early days of the New Deal.

Democrats To Suffer.

The meaning of this to the Democrats for the 1942 elections is clear. Absentee voting in the armed forces presents many complicated problems and in some cases conflicts with state election laws. As judged by the Institute's studies, out of every 100 men in the armed forces who do not take the trouble to vote, the Democrats will lose 60 votes whereas the Republicans will lose only 40.

And the more men drawn into

the armed forces, the more voters will be lost to the Democrats.

The loss or reduction of the Democratic young vote might have important repercussions in various individual states and congressional districts.

There are, for example, 53 Democratic seats in the house which were won by majorities of 50 through 55 per cent of the major party vote in 1940. Democratic losses of but a few per cent in these areas could swing many of these seats to the Republicans.

Eight states in the 1940 presidential election were carried by the Democrats with majorities of only 50 to 53 per cent of the major party vote. Only a very slight Democratic defection would shift these states to the Republicans in gubernatorial races.

The problem of enabling soldiers to vote has been engaging the attention of state officials for some months. It is felt that some simplified system can be worked out. At present the procedure varies from state to state and is cumbersome and involved in most cases.

In Ohio, for example, ballots cannot be printed until 30 days before election. This does not allow sufficient time to ship ballots to the front or Australia and get them back again.

U. S. Bolsters Military Ties With DeGaulle

No Political Implications Involved in New London Mission.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—The United States today strengthened its military ties with the Free French but made clear the action had no political implications.

The State Department announced that a military and a naval representative had been assigned to consult in London with the Free French national committee headed by General Charles de Gaulle, "on all matters relating to the conduct of the war."

They are Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of American naval forces in European waters, and Brigadier General Charles L. Bolte, chief of staff of Lieutenant General Dwight Eisenhower, commander in chief of American forces in Europe.

Without referring to the controversy over diplomatic recognition of the Free French, the announcement and accompanying memorandum emphasized that the purpose of the new assignments and the aim of American policy was to strengthen and facilitate military aid to the Free French.

As to the political status of the national committee, the memorandum handed to DeGaulle in Lon-

What's Estranged Wife To Do? Hubby Leaves With Sugar Book

Regional OPA attorneys doubt that custody of war ration books will become a point in divorce proceedings, but concede that some form of court action may be necessary to prevent a few estranged spouses from going without sugar.

The question came up yesterday when Murray Soule, Georgia sugar rationing specialist, reported that in two cases of separations the wives had complained their husbands refused to surrender their ration books and had asked for replacements.

Regional Price Attorney Jonathan B. Richards said "they are entitled to their ration books and if their local board is unable to recover them from the husbands apparently they should proceed through their attorneys. It takes 60 days to get a replacement."

He said the United States regarded DeGaulle's committee as "a symbol of French resistance," to Axis aggression, rather than as a government in exile.

"The government of the United States," said the memorandum, "wholeheartedly agrees with the view of the British government, which is also known to be the view of the French national committee, that the destiny and political organization of France must, in the last analysis, be determined by free expression of the French people under conditions giving them freedom to express their desires unswayed by any form of coercion."

This paragraph was regarded here as significant in that not only the United States but Great Britain and the Free French national committee as well, now appear to be in agreement as to the status of the committee.

The State Department's announcement stressed that the assignment of the representatives was in line with President Roosevelt's declaration last November that the defense of French territories under Free French control was vital to the defense of the United States.

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

TEMPERANCE SUNDAY.

Mayor William B. Hartsfield, of Atlanta, has proclaimed next Sunday, July 12, as Temperance Sunday, and he requests "all the people of Atlanta to attend a city-wide mass meeting at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at the Baptist Tabernacle for the purpose of hearing Clinton Howard, of Washington, D. C."

Mayor Hartsfield goes on to say: "In this grave hour when the strength of America is being challenged to combat these desperate forces which seek the destruction of our Christian civilization and the enslavement of all free peoples, our law-abiding and decent citizens should not remain inactive or tolerant in the presence of any community vices or excesses which undermine the strength and character of our citizenship."

The above words of Atlanta's great mayor express clearly and powerfully the reasons for renewed vigilance on the part of loyal Americans everywhere in combating the subtle and frightening effects of alcoholic beverages in this crucial hour.

The liquor crowd is having a great inning right now. The current report of the alcohol task unit of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, Treasury Department, Washington, D. C., shows that in March, 1942, 11,312,135 gallons of whiskey, rum, gin, brandy, and other spirits were withdrawn from the warehouses, as against 8,449,794 gallons in March, 1941. Chief Hartsfield, of the Atlanta police department, reports 271 arrests for drunkenness on July 4, 1942, as compared with 160 arrests for drunkenness on July 4, 1941.

Not only are we witnessing the FITZGERALD, Ga., July 9.—(AP)—A collapsible rubber boat, containing aluminum oars, a repair kit and a pair of pliers, was found Tuesday by David L. Paulk, clerk of the county superior court, in a creek on his farm 14 miles west of Fitzgerald. A canvas bucket was found near by.

Paulk said it was evident they had fallen from an airplane. Marks on them showed they were manufactured in the United States this year. Paulk has notified federal officials.

increasing menace of alcoholic beverages in the civilian life of our nation, but there is growing evidence of its damaging effects within the soldier population. I was distressed to learn that in a recent unofficial survey of a certain area of training camps it was found that in approximately 87 per cent of the arrests among soldiers, liquor was directly or indirectly involved. This survey should serve, it seems to me, to hasten action on senate bill 860, which would regulate the sale of liquor in or near Army camps. I was interested to see a statement the other day that this bill would undoubtedly pass, if it is ever allowed to reach the floor of the senate.

Likewise, the increased arrests for drunkenness in civilian life should serve, it seems to me, to put our people generally on notice that something has got to be done to curb the menace of the liquor traffic. Why should liquor stores be allowed to remain open until midnight, and on holidays? If there is agreement that Mayor Hartsfield is correct in saying that "citizens should not remain inactive or tolerant in the presence of any community vices or excesses which undermine the strength and character of our citizenship," why shouldn't we unite and intelligently tackle the task of rigidly regulating this acknowledged evil?

LIFETIME DECATUR RESIDENT, MASON, MASTER MECHANIC, GIVES POW-O-LIN ENDORSEMENT

"I Felt So Sluggish, Achy, Let Down, and Miserable My Work Was a Burden," Declares Mr. Bunn. Sr. Tells of Happy Relief Through Herbal Pow-o-lin and Recommends It to His Friends.

MR. T. E. BUNN, SR.

Among the well-known Georgia men and women to come forward with grateful, heartfelt endorsements for Pow-o-lin are scores of ministers, professional and fraternal men, railroad men, farmers, nurses, housewives and workers from every walk of life. Mr. T. E. Bunn, Sr., master mechanic, employed in Defense Work, well known in Masonic circles, residing on Route 2, Decatur, Ga., declares:

"I didn't enjoy a mouthful of food for fear of gas bloating, pressure and distress that usually followed every meal. My head ached and throbbed and I ate so little I felt undernourished and my work became burdensome. After a day at my work I would drag home feeling fatigued and let down. My nerves felt on edge, my sleep was fitful and morning found me feeling as fatigued and discouraged as when I went to bed. I don't believe anyone ever had a worse case of constipation and I took strong laxatives that upset me so I had just about decided there was no use to hope for relief from my harassing distress. "Pow-o-lin gave me grand relief from my suffering. I eat what I want and food seems to give me added energy and strength. I go about my work with vim. I don't have to take harsh laxatives for constipation and sleep better than for a long time. Pow-o-lin has my everlasting praise. I wish everyone suffering as I did could try this splendid medicine. "Pow-o-lin is a purely herbal preparation for the relief of distress as described by Mr. Bunn, Sr., when due to constipation. Thousands endorse it. Your druggist guarantees it. Wrestling Card Brings 6 Stars Here Tonight

Grappling Returns to Auditorium After Long Absence.

Featuring six of this country's brightest wrestling stars, including two members of the famed Dusek family, heavyweight wrestling returns to the city auditorium tonight after a long absence.

Joe Cox, the dynamic Kansas City bad man who ranks high among the mat game's leading gate attractions, will tangle with reckless, colorful Ernie Dusek, in the 90-minute feature attraction.

Two out of three falls will be needed to decide the winner. The Golden Terror, masked dreadnaught of the ring who has used his 310 pounds to crush 33 opponents in a row and keep his identity unknown, will meet Emil Dusek, younger brother of Ernie, in the semi-final, another three-fall battle which carries an hour time limit.

Proof enough that this program is far above the ordinary lies in the announcement that Dory Roche, a headliner from coast to coast, will appear in the opening event at 8:30 o'clock. The one-time coal miner will take on Hans Schultz, a highly rated performer making his debut in Atlanta.

Matchmaker Abe Simon, promising that this show is the forerunner of a series of strictly big-time shows which will present the game's outstanding stars in the auditorium ring, has thrown the doors wide open to men of the armed forces. All enlisted men as well as officers will be admitted absolutely free.

Two Pennants LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 9.—(By Mail)—Not many people remember that Little Rock has won two pennants . . . 1920 and 1937. Not many people outside of Little Rock or Hot Springs care.

But some of the league's most turbulent days have been centered around the Pebbles of the twenties, when Old Man Allen, now of Knoxville, had the club and the manager was none other than Norman Elberfeld, the Tabasco Kid.

The fiery kid didn't have much in the way of a hitting ball club but to equalize matters he'd take charge of the baseballs for the games in Little Rock and give them the old ice box treatment.

In those days the baseballs were not live as they are today and after being frozen they had about the same carry as the modern softball, or a boiled potato.

Doc Prothro came along in another era at Little Rock and baseball interest soared again. It was a hot pennant fight.

And they tell quite a story on Doc. Beyond left field is the home for the mentally unwell.

And one night one of the inmates—they are allowed to sit in a special section at the games—decided to climb a light standard.

"What are you doing up there?" called Doc Prothro during a tense moment when things were not going so well for Little Rock.

"I'm crazy!" the fellow responded.

"YOU'RE crazy?" Doc yelled back. "What am I doing down here?"

Athletic Heritage I can think of several great athletes who have stemmed from Little Rock and environs. Tech's Eddie Hamm, great broad jumper; Doug Wycoff, superb fullback; Alabama's Don Hutson, and the New York Yankees' Bill Dickey.

In their particular field these four asked no favors. Little Rock also is the home of Ben Epstein, an old schoolmate of Abe Simon, southern wrestling impresario who has part-time headquarters in Atlanta, which now is included on the grunt and groan circuit.

Epstein is a courageous character. He writes baseball about the Little Rock Pebbles. You might say that's easy, on account of the fine job of managing Willis Hudlin has done.

But you don't know the rest. He has to put up with Owner Roy Thompson. Which explains his fortitude.

I am wondering, too, what effect the recent unannounced raise in prices for Hudlin night will have on the political aspirations of Little Rock baseball secretary, Ray Winder, who is running for a county office.

Life sometimes is harsh. Anything Winder might say would be used against him.

All-Star Veteran Paul Richards, at 33, is a real veteran of the Southern League All-Star games. He is the only player who has taken part in all five.

Tonight, of course, he was the All-Star pilot for the second time. Back in 1939 he led the pick of Southern League players against Frank Brazill's Memphis Chicks, who won by a shutout, 3 to 0.

In the very first game of the All-Star series, Richards was a manager for the first time. It was 1938. The Crackers walloped the All-Stars, managed by Doc Prothro, 14 to 4, and that year the Crackers also won the pennant and Dixie Series—a grand slam for the rookie pilot.

In 1940 Richards played for the All-Stars under Manager Ki Ki Cuyler. The game at Nashville produced the first All-Star victory. The score was 6 to 1.

Last year Atlanta was host to the All-Stars for the second time and with Allyn Stout pitching magnificently, the Crackers triumphed by a shutout, 5 to 0.

Stout, pitching for his job, was never in better form.

The All-Star series has been highly colorful and no town has failed to give the game outstanding support. Up to now host towns have included Atlanta, Memphis, Nashville and Little Rock.

Southern Aces Total 13 Blows Off 3 Pitchers

Bevil Is Winner, Callahan Loser in Game at Little Rock.

By JACK TROY, Constitution Sports Editor.

TRAVELER FIELD, LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 9.—For the second time in five years, the Southern League All-Stars tonight defeated the host team.

There was a capacity throng of 7,293, the best crowd in three years, in attendance. It was a perfect setting for the home club. But there is no sentiment in baseball, and Paul Richards' All-Stars walloped the Little Rock club, 5 to 1. Appropriately, Little Rock Manager Willis Hudlin pitched the first couple of innings and departed with the Travelers leading by 1 to 0.

Starting Pitcher Vito Tamulis got no runs in his turn of three innings, and so Chattanooga's Russ Bevil was on the mound when the All-Stars put the game away.

BEVIL WINNER.

Bevil may have started it all when he slanted an upsetting bunt, catching Callahan off balance. Bevil went on to score the tying run and he figured later in driving in another.

A three-run rally in the fifth was the deciding factor in the game, and for good measure there were other runs scored in the sixth and ninth.

Birmingham's Mike Dejan was the hitting star with three safes in five times up. The All-Stars collected 13 hits to eight for the home team.

Back in 1940 the All Stars, managed by Kiki Cuyler, turned back Nashville, 5 to 1. In the other three games prior to tonight's the host team had been highly successful.

Bevil was the winning pitcher tonight and Callahan the loser.

FIFTH FOR RICHARDS.

Skipper Richards, although serving as a bench manager, participated in his fifth straight All-Star game, and the triumph, therefore, was his third. He managed Atlanta in 1938 and 1941 when the All-Stars were trounced, 14 to 4 and 5 to 0.

Tonight's brilliant crowd of 7,293 (paid) compared most favorably with an attendance of 6,945 last year and 5,578 the year before.

The sight of every seat filled and fans overflowing on the field was most inspiring to league directors who meet annually when the All-Star game is played.

The result was a bit disappointing to the throng but a good ball game it was—in spite of a short-staged management which again tonight charged children 85 cents for admission.

FREE GAME SATURDAY.

Before the annual fixture got under way President Trammell Scott announced that Little Rock and Nashville would play a game Saturday night in which all customers would be admitted on payment of service charge and tax.

This was done to make amends for the Little Rock management overcharging patrons at the recent Hudlin night. A capacity crowd cheered the announcement.

Schilling, of the All-Stars, greeted Hudlin with a double off the left field scoreboard. Dejan popped to third on English walk and then Dugas hit into a double play.

Tamulis was greeted by a double, Fausett connecting for two bases and it paid off in the first run when Schik singled left.

Hudlin pitched two scoreless innings for the Pebbles and then retired in favor of Callahan, who got off to a scoreless start also.

The game went through the third with the Pebbles still leading, the hit evened the score.

On the fourth Dugas led off with a walk, but he never moved a peg as Howell fanned, Adair flied to left and Hart went down swinging.

In the Pebble half Cantrell also drew a walk as leadoff batter but he was forced by Holbrook and then Adair turned Oglesby's grounder into a double play.

STARS START GOING. After Burmeister grounded out in the fifth, Bevil crossed up Callahan and beat out a punt to the side of the mound. Schilling singled, and Bevil hustled to third.

On the throw Schilling went to second. Then Dejan's single scored both runners, putting the All-Stars in front. Dejan stole second and scored on Dugas' single to increase the lead to 3 to 1.

Red hot field the All-Stars turned in their third straight double play in the fifth. Hancock blistered a single to left and Adair turned Callahan's grounder into a twin killing.

BURMEISTER SCORES. After one man had gone out in the sixth, Burmeister blasted a single to left and went to second when the ball went through Cantrell's legs. Bevil scored Burmeister with a single to right and then gave Jacksonville a victory over Charleston, 10 to 8, in a game halted in the ninth by the dimout rule.

TARS CLIP CHARLESTON. CHARLESTON, S. C., July 9.—(P)—Al Pecora hit a home run with a bases loaded tonight to give Jacksonville a victory over Charleston, 10 to 8, in a game halted in the ninth by the dimout rule.

Pitches No-Hitter Homers: Result, 1-0

SAN ANTONIO, July 9.—(P) Doyle Lade, of Shreveport, crashed into baseball's circle of stars with a loud whack!

He pitched a no-hit, 1-0 victory over the San Antonio Missions, fanning only three but retiring in order the last 16 batters to face him.

And he knocked the ball over the left field fence for the homey that gave the Sports their winning score.

'Circle Kid' Meets Armour Tonight

Frank Hardman, known to fight fans as the "Circle Kid," tangles with Clifford Armour, the only fighter to hold a decision over Hardman, tonight at 8:45 o'clock at the Hubert gymnasium, 273 Auburn avenue, in the feature attraction.

A. J. (Marge) Kid Stokes battles Johnny Mapp, a hard-hitter, in the semi-final match.

A special section has been provided for white fans. The boxing commission of the city of Atlanta supervises all of the fights and Promoter Tee Hubert picks the best boys in this section and near-by states for his fights.

Travs To Play Free Game on Saturday Night

Southern League Defers Plans for 1943 Season, Scott Announces.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 9.—(P)—Southern Association baseball directors today reaffirmed their intention of carrying on through the 1942 season but deferred a decision on 1943 plans until later in the year.

President Trammell Scott announced following an hour and a half closed session held prior to the annual All-Star game that the league would have to await war developments before deciding whether to continue next season.

Scott said the directors had voted to permit the Little Rock club to have a "free" night Saturday night "in appreciation of the patronage of Little Rock fans this year and in view of the large turnout for 'Willis Hudlin Night' last week.

Spectators will be admitted to the Little Rock-Nashville tilt that night by payment of a 25-cent tax and service charge.

Several directors of the Little Rock baseball club proposed the free night after sports editors of both Little Rock newspapers brought the club under fire for a "front office" bobble that put it in bad with home town fans.

REPORT PROGRESS—John O. Chiles (left) and Charles H. Jagels yesterday received first reports on the employees' division of the United War Work Fund drive, which group they head. A total of more than $62,000 was reported and recorded on the huge progress board of the fund. Response thus far is encouraging, they said.

Initial Report Shows $62,000 In Fund Drive

Amount Is From Partial Canvass of 98 Firms; Outlook Good.

With initial reports on partial canvass of 98 Atlanta firms filed yesterday, leaders of the United War Work Fund expressed "extreme satisfaction" with the total of more than $62,000 which was announced at the report luncheon of the employees' division held at the Athletic Club.

Charles H. Jagels, chairman for this division of the drive, called it a "splendid commentary on citizens of the rank and file, lower income groups."

Members of the general canvass, initial gifts, business and county divisions will have a similar report meeting at 12:30 o'clock today at the Athletic Club.

In announcing the response from the employees' division, that group which is canvassing 326 businesses employing 50 or more persons, W. E. Mitchell, associate general chairman of the three-county campaign, pointed out that yesterday's report represented only about 25 per cent of the em-

Cheer Up, Gals! Navy Forbids Sailors To Marry 'Furriners'

The local gals American sailors and marines left behind them can now throw their worrying rocks on the junk heap. The masculine one-and-only is safe from the clutches of designing Irish roses, Australian blossoms and hula hula girls. He may fall for one of them in a weak moment, but he can't marry her without the consent of his senior commander. And such commanders are serious, thoughtful men, with a partiality for American femininity (we hope).

The order proclaiming the heartening news to the girls back home was received Wednesday by Lieutenant Colonel John D. O'Leary, officer in charge of the southern division of the Marine Corps, from the secretary of the Navy, and reads:

"No members of naval, Marine Corps or Coast Guard forces on duty in any foreign country or possession may marry without the approval of the senior commander of such forces stationed in that country, possession or area."

The Navy always guards the home front, eh what?

Employees who will be approached through this division of the drive.

Two organizations, the Link-Belt Company and the Monarch Company, turned in reports of 100 per cent response from their employees.

The Lovable Brassiere Company, an organization which consists of 200 girl employees and some 50 men, reported total contributions of $4,236, an average of approximately $20 from each employee.

Second report meeting of the employees' division will be held next Monday, it was announced by Chairman Jagels and his co-chairman, John O. Chiles.

Quota for the fund drive which embraces Fulton, DeKalb and Rockdale counties is $354,000.

Vote Prevention Plot Charged by GSCW Girls

meet, as provided by law, prior to April 20 for the purpose of notifying delinquent registrants of their status, would result in elimination of more than 900 voters in Baldwin county this year.

3. That the registrars on notifying the students to appear and defend their right to vote, failed to make any genuine effort to see that the notices were received and, as a result, more than 50 per cent of the notices were returned to the board unopened.

4. That they have a legal right to vote in Baldwin county since they have made it their home for the last four years, and, although some were under 21 years old when they registered, they will be of age before the primary and should not be classified as minors.

5. That Judge Jackson violated the law governing appointment of registrars, which provides all members shall not be from the same political interest, when he named the present trio, all of whom are admittedly staunch supporters of the Governor.

Judge Blames "Enemies."
6. That the only purpose the board had in challenging their right to vote is to either eliminate or scatter the block of 75 ballots, which are certain to be cast in favor of Ellis Arnall.

Judge Jackson denied there was anything out of order in his appointment to the board of registrars, and charged the controversy was launched by his political enemies who are "trying to raise confusion out of nothing."

The jurist, who was appointed to the Board of Regents by Governor Talmadge during the "ousting" row last fall, said members of the Board of Registrars who were in office on January 1 were authorized by law to continue with their duties until successors are named, even though their original term had expired.

He said he did not know the old board, composed of E. C. Kidd Jr., Dr. J. B. Helton and Frank O.

Evans, was not functioning and did not meet prior to April 20.

He declared the failure of the registrars to send out notices to delinquents was not responsible for the elimination of more than 900 voters in Baldwin, asserting every county in the state had suffered similar losses due to lack of interest in politics of most citizens.

Reasons For Challenge.

The judge, stepfather of Carlton Mobley, aide of Governor Talmadge, said the registrars had challenged the students' right to vote in Baldwin county because they are considered minors and their legal residence is the domicile of their parents until they are 21.

All students whose names have been removed from the Baldwin county list are entitled to apply for and receive a transfer of their registration to the counties in which their parents reside, Judge Jackson said. He added that the decision as to whether their names then would be added to the list of qualified voters would be made by the various local boards of registrars.

When informed that more than half the 75 girls had not received notification that their right to vote has been challenged and, as a result, are facing disfranchisement for at least this year's elections, Judge Jackson said he would rescind the Baldwin registrars that second notices be mailed them.

The board is composed of E. J. Smith, chairman; Frank Malpass and W. L. Weaver.

According to court records, Smith was appointed on May 19, 1942, 15 days after the May 3 deadline for registration; Weaver was appointed June 5, and Malpass was named June 10.

Members of the board denied they are attempting to keep the students from voting, declaring they were attempting to carry out their duties strictly according to law.

Weaver Disturbed.
Chairman Smith and Weaver said Judge J. T. Terry, of Baldwin county court, who recently was appointed by Governor Talmadge to succeed C. E. McCullar, was serving as legal advisor of the board.

Weaver said he has been "disturbed by the reaction of the people" in the controversy and had told Carlton Mobley and the Governor about it at Moultrie when they went down to Moultrie to hear him speak on July 4.

Weaver said the controversy also was brought to Governor Talmadge's attention by Judge Terry and Smith, who also attended the Moultrie rally.

A list of names of the students affected by the board's action was prepared and sent to Harris Morton, of Gray, Ocmulgee superior court reporter, at Judge Jackson's request, Weaver revealed.

but he said no copies were made and the names were not available for publication.

Weaver declared he and other members of the board "are all back of the Governor, but we don't want to keep anyone off the voters' list who is legally entitled to vote."

Recite Code Section.

In charging that Judge Jackson had not fulfilled his duty efficiently by waiting until after the registration deadline to appoint new registrars, spokesmen for the student group cited the following section of the Georgia code:

Within 30 days after January 1, 1935, and biennially thereafter, the judge of the superior court of each county shall appoint three upright and intelligent citizens of said county as county registrars and have the appointment entered on the minutes of the court. Said appointment shall be for a term of two years or until their successors are appointed and qualified.

The group also turned to the statutes in their charge that Judge Jackson failed to follow correct procedure by appointing three avowed Talmadge supporters to the board. The section follows:

"Said judge shall not appoint all the registrars from any one conflicting political interest or party and if, at any time, it shall appear that all the regis-

Appointment By Talmadge Angers Clarke

Friends Say Shackelford Was Sidetracked on Judgeship.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
ATHENS, Ga., July 9.—After a night and day of "Aw, now—gee whizz" arguments, the appeasement squad of the Talmadge Palace Guards emerged from its latest embroilment in Clarke county with a courtly assurance of good will from the man they had knifed—but with the majority of the county's Talmadge forces still seething with revolt.

Seventy-year-old Thomas J. Shackelford, who has practiced before the Clarke county bar for 50 years, said tonight of his rebuff by the Governor he has supported in every campaign, but instead, "I can take this disappointment as a big man should."

He was referring to the Governor's disregard of his supporters for his appointment to the western circuit judgeship and the appointment to the post, instead, of Henry H. West, an implacable Talmadge foe for years, but a close friend of United States Senator Russell.

"Lots of Criticism."

"I was never, personally, a candidate for the post," said Shackelford tonight. "My friends felt I was entitled to the appointment because of my long service and loyalty to the Governor. I am still his loyal supporter, although there are others who are engaged in quite a discussion. There's lots of criticism."

The only campaign in which Shackelford did not support Talmadge was the Governor's race against United States Senator Walter George.

"I'll admit I'm more of an admirer of Walter George than I am of Eugene Talmadge," said Shackelford.

Arnica Stings.

Talmadge supporters in Clarke county, where the Governor always has been a minority factor, insisted that the appointment of Henry West to the judgeship would strengthen the Talmadge forces there.

"The Russell supporters will like it," they comforted themselves. But the arnica stings, and Clarke county is preparing to turn out the biggest anti-Talmadge vote in all its anti-Talmadge history.

The lay citizens of the community are joining with the University forces to resent the deep driving of the dagger, on which is carved the Talmadge motto: "All or none."

trars are from one conflicting political interest or party, then one of said registrars shall at once be removed and a successor appointed so as to maintain a bipartisan board."

Although names of all students whose right to vote has been challenged could not be obtained, the group included Nancy Ragland, 516 Mason avenue, of Atlanta; Martha Daniel, 855 Rosedale road, of Atlanta, former president of the GSCW College Government Association; Betty Shaw, of Cartersville; Jo Ann Bivins, of Cordele; Jane Smith, of Cochran; Mary Ruth Reid, of Thomaston; Virginia Banks, of Barnesville, and Elizabeth Colson, of Plenwood.

Several of the girls were reported to have appeared before the board and defended their positions, but only one or two were allowed on the list or to transfer to their home counties.

Mary Ruth Reid, secretary to Dr. Guy H. Wells, GSCW president, when he was Rotary governor, confirmed the fact adjustment had been made in her status, but refused to make any statement regarding the action.

Miss Reid said "In view of my situation," it would be impossible for her to discuss the matter. Her refusal came following a brief conference with an unidentified person in the building in which Dr. Wells' office is situated. Dr. Wells was named president of GSCW during Talmadge's tenure as Governor prior to his election to his present term.

Efforts to contact Misses Daniel, Ragland, Banks and Colson were unsuccessful.

Miss Smith, reached by long distance telephone at her home in Cochran, said she received notice of the challenge and already had transferred her registration to Bleckley county.

Miss Bivins, also contacted by telephone, said she had not received any official notice of the challenge, but after hearing rumors of it, has transferred her registration to Crisp county.

Miss Bivins declared she was "quite shocked" to learn that her vote had been challenged.

Loss of School Rating Decried By McClatchey

is—a threat to the security of every teacher bold enough to think for himself—a disgusting triumph of ignorance, prejudice and savagery over the forces of enlightenment and civilization."

"Gene Talmadge," he said, "is relying on the war to keep voters thinking about something other than the race for Governor."

Not even Talmadge himself believed the charges against Dean Cocking, President Pittman, the students were told. As a lawyer, McClatchey pointed out that the "evidence was absurd, and charges even more absurd, and the so-called verdict of the trial written out the night before the proceedings started. The whole procedure was like a burlesque, except that it was a tragedy."

Referring to Talmadge's attempts to make his followers believe there was a difference of opinion among the students, McClatchey exhibited a picture of the university bus carried in Sunday's Constitution. "It looks," he said, "as if education begins at 40."

McClatchey was introduced by Kirk Nesbit, president of the Tech Student Political League, who told his audience that it was useless for Tech boys to go out on foreign battlefields to defeat dictatorship and tyranny when here at home democracy had been trampled in Georgia.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, gasing up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there's something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. From Cleveland, Ohio, will come Miss Mildred Calhoun, a cousin of the bride-elect, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Calhoun, who lived at the corner of Peachtree and Fourteenth streets in the pioneer days of Atlanta. Henry Porter Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Geer, of Charleston, S. C., will attend the Block-Jones wedding as cousins of the bride-elect, as will Mrs. Mattie Lowry Terrell, of Dalton, and Mrs. Lollie Markham Pickett, of Griffin.

Charlotte Freels, of Miami, Fla.; Frances McKee, Mrs. James McKee and Miss Susan McPheters reached here several days ago, having been lured to Atlanta for the marriage next Thursday evening. Julia's cousin, Mrs. Troup Miller, and Julia Miller, of Montgomery, Ala., are also among the socially prominent personages expected here next week for the festivities.

When Julia was six years old her mother began to collect linens for her "hope chest," with the result that the chest contains priceless articles for the bride-elect to use when she goes to housekeeping in Aberdeen, Md. Her mother has also given her six silver goblets and a silver pitcher which are half of the set given Julia's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Porter, when they married. Six matching goblets and another pitcher have been put aside for Julia's brother, Bates Block, when he weds the girl of his choice. Lacy-looking twin bedspreads, crocheted by Belle Bruner, a close friend of Mrs. E. Bates Block, are numbered among attractive gifts. The card bearing the name of Jingo Block is attached to the pink breakfast tray holding pale pink china. Jingo is Julia's 11-year-old black-cocker spaniel, to whom she is devoted, and who sits beside her when she breakfasts every day.

... THERE WAS no formal celebration of the event, but friends just could not resist dropping in or calling on Tuesday to congratulate them, for the day marked their 25th anniversary. There were also telegrams, flowers, and gifts galore, for society doesn't boast of a more popular pair.

Of course the nicest feature of the day to Jessie was that Ted, who is now Major Pottinger, as you know, could obtain leave from his Army station in Texas, to be present for the auspicious occasion. Also present were their sons, Teddy and Sanford, in addition to other members of their family who gathered in the evening at their home on Rivers road to wish them happiness.

During the evening someone proposed a toast to Jessie and Ted, and Ted responded—to Jessie's great surprise—with a poem he had written to her. You see, he and Jessie were married during the last World War, in which Ted saw service as a captain. And the fact that he has lived to see service in another, coupled with the inter-

Women's Meetings

FRIDAY, JULY 10.

The board of directors of Atlanta Woman's Club meets at 10:30 o'clock.

The executive board of the Grant Park Woman's Club meets at 10 o'clock at the clubhouse.

The Wayside Gardeners meet at 3 o'clock with Mrs. Boistuelet Jones and Mrs. DeVaughn Woods, 2031 Golf View drive, N. W. The executive board will meet at 2:30 o'clock.

The East Point W. C. T. U. meets at 2:30 o'clock with Mrs. Lawrence Willis, 210 Thompson avenue.

vening 25 years of happiness, inspired him to compose the following verse:

"These twenty-five years have gone by fast,
A quarter century has flitted past.

First, World War One, now World War Two,
And in between we survived home brew.

"Great empires and nations have 'bit the dust'
And now the whole world seems about to bust.

Kings and presidents have taken a licking,
But we're still here, alive and kicking.

"So here's to Jessie, she's got everything—
Love, charm—and an old wedding ring.
It's twenty-five years old but better than new,
For it says that I'm still in love with you."

... SALLY REALLY started something when she told you about a new vegetable called celtuce recently. Since then all kinds of new and unusual ideas in foods have been called to her attention. The most recent is a recipe for cooking radishes which comes from Miss Della Edwards, of Holderness street.

Miss Edwards explained that one of her neighbors had been greatly surprised when she told her that she always served radishes in the raw state. The neighbor, it seems, grows only white radishes, and she cooks them like turnips, greens, and all, and serves them like turnips. Miss Edwards hastened to plant the white variety, too. Then she tried cooking them, and found them very good indeed. She passed the idea on to Sally, who hereby passes it on for you to try.

... DO YOU know? ... That Mrs. Frank Carter wears the Croix de Guerre that her husband won in World War No. 1 strung on a ribbon as a necklace? ... That a group of children who began knitting afghans for the armed forces after the Pearl Harbor attack have completed 94 squares and shipped them abroad—and that all their mothers are members of the Red Cross Motor Corps? ... That Mrs. Floyd McRae is a "real daughter" of Atlanta, being the daughter of Judge John Collier, and the great-granddaughter of Meredith Collier, of Marthasville? ... And that she will be among very special guests at the banquet celebrating the centennial anniversary of the founding of Marthasville, which takes place tomorrow evening at the Biltmore hotel? ... That members of the American Women's Volunteer Association celebrated the organization's first birthday on Tuesday with an informal tea held at the headquarters on Peachtree—and that the tea table was centered by a birthday cake frosted in red, white and blue icing?

Pilot Club Expands Defense Program.

The Pilot Club will meet July 14 at 5:30 o'clock at the Ansley hotel, with Mrs. Gene C. Berkeley, president, presiding.

An interesting announcement at the last meeting was that all members of the club will meet regularly once a month at Red Cross headquarters to roll bandages and perform such other duties as are assigned to them. Members are asked to assemble July 28 at the Red Cross surgical dressing unit, 850 West Peachtree street, as soon after 5:30 o'clock as possible. The victory, civic, social welfare and life and health committees of the club have equipped a first aid center in the downtown section of Atlanta, and the life and health committee is sponsoring the Red Cross blood bank, where several members have already made donations. Furniture for the recreation center at Fort McPherson's induction center has been collected and redecorated and a quantity has already been delivered to the center.

The victory committee is collecting bundles for America. Also working through this committee, several members have volunteered and have been selected for important duties at the control center. Other members work at the Atlanta filter center, so the club members are contributing a great deal of time and effort to defense activities.

For Miss Stephens.

Miss Estelle Stephens, attractive bride-elect, will be entertained this evening at a linen shower given by Mrs. J. E. Stephens and Mrs. J. D. Stephens, at the home of the former on Boulevard. A host of friends and relatives will be present.

Bird and Flower Club.

The annual birthday party of the Bird and Flower Garden Club will be held today at the home of Mrs. Alva D. Kiser, founder and honorary president, 744 Virginia circle. Mrs. E. C. Terry and Mrs. S. P. Booth will be co-hostesses. A flower show will be staged and all prizes will be defense stamps.

MRS. EDWARD MULDOON.

Miss Hudson, Dr. Muldoon Are Married at Home Rites

STANDING ROCK, Ala., July 9.—Miss Mildred Hudson, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Franklin Hudson, became the bride of Dr. Edward Muldoon, of Florence, N. J., at a beautiful twilight ceremony here today. The wedding took place at the Hudson home, with Rev. N. C. Snyder, assisted by Rev. T. E. Edgar, reading the marriage service.

The vows were taken in the long living room before an altar formed against the mantel, which was massed with an arrangement of ferns and palms. Flanking the white satin prie-dieu were floor baskets filled with white gladioli and madonna lilies. Tall white candles burning in cathedral candleabra furnished the only illumination for the ceremony.

Miss Mabel White and Albert Penn presented a musical program. Miss Evelyn Moreman, of West Point, lighted the candles. She wore blue net and carried yellow daisies.

Miss Marguerite Green, of Jacksonville, was maid of honor and Miss Sally Jennings, of Lanett, was junior bridesmaid. They were gowning alike in bouffant models of pale pink marquisette. They carried bouquets of pastel asters.

Dr. Muldoon had as his best man Rube Jennings Jr., of West Point. The bride chose white lace and marquisette for her wedding gown which was styled on simple lines and untrimmed. The fingertip veil of illusion fell from a tulle cap, and she carried a white satin prayer book showered with white orchids and stephanotis. Mr. and Mrs. Hudson were hosts at a reception after the ceremony in honor of their daughter and Dr. Muldoon. Mrs. Hudson received her guests wearing light blue chiffon. Her flowers were pink roses with stephanotis. Dr. and Mrs. Muldoon left for a wedding journey through New England and Canada. At present they will reside in Florence, N. J., where Dr. Muldoon is practicing medicine.

Corporal and Mrs. Eddie B. Joyner, of Fort Benning and Austell, announce the birth of a daughter, Frances Pauline, on June 27 at Emory University hospital. Mrs. Joyner is the former Miss Sue Eaton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Eaton Sr., of Austell.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Glenn announce the birth of a daughter, Caroline Avery, on July 6 at Georgia Baptist hospital. Mrs. Glenn is the former Miss Neva Chambers.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Fitts announce the birth of a daughter, Mary Frances, on July 5 at Emory University hospital. Mrs. Fitts is the former Miss Sarah Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Myers.

Mr. and Mrs. Trimble B. Hughie, of Fairburn, announce the birth of a son on July 1 at Piedmont hospital, whom they have named Franklin Ernest. Mrs. Hughie is the former Miss Mary Louise Jones, daughter of B. F. Jones and the late Mrs. Jones, of Fairburn. Mrs. E. J. Hughie and the late Mr. Hughie, of College Park, are the paternal grandparents of the baby.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Arthur G. Coffin Jr., of Kingsport, Tenn., announce the birth of a son, Arthur G. Coffin III, on June 30. Mrs. Coffin is the former Miss Martha Keys, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Keys, of Kingsport. The baby's paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Coffin, of Atlanta.

Miss Hecht Fetes Recent Bride Today.

An interesting party of today will be the tea at which Miss Lottie Hecht will be hostess at 4 o'clock at her home on Peachtree Battle avenue, honoring Mrs. George Eager, a recent bride. Mrs. Eager is the former Miss Laura Brownell, daughter of Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. G. S. Brownell.

Film Committee Plans Luncheon For Jan Struther

Jan Struther, author of the novel, "Mrs. Miniver," which has been screened by Metro-Goldwyn, will be honor guest at a luncheon to be given by the Atlanta Better Films Committee on Tuesday at 12:30 o'clock, on the Ansley Hotel roof. Mrs. S. D. Katz, president, will preside and introduce the guest.

Miss Struther will be the guest of Edwin Pentecost, manager of Loew's Grand theater, where the picture is currently showing, and will be in Atlanta for only one day.

In private life, Miss Struther is Mrs. Maxtone Graham, wife of a prominent lawyer in London. They have a son in the RAF, and with the two younger children, Mrs. Graham will make her home in New York "for the duration."

The luncheon will not be confined to members of the Better Films Committee, but will be open to the public. Anyone desiring a reservation may make same by calling Mrs. M. O. Campbell, DE. 3457.

The affair will take the place of the July meeting and the picnic scheduled for this month will be postponed to August 27.

A Stiff Set Of Exercises From South Of Equator

By Ida Jean Kain.

Don't you believe it about the South American beauty always "taking the siesta"—that double-feature nap that is rumored to start at noon and finish just in time to dress for dinner? When the lady takes a nap, she is forestalling the slightest drain on her reserve energy. And, I suspect, the "siesta" is the reason everyone I've met from the tropics displays more energy than a hot tamale.

The Latins seem to think it's impolite to tell us we're wrong in thinking everyone below the equator goes around in a lovely dreamy haze. Petite Mayita Montez, Argentine ice skating star who has lived all over that part of the map, told me seriously that the women down there "can't exercise as much as they can in this country because it's so hot they would knock themselves out."

Miss Montez then trudged up to the blazing roof of the Center theater building in Radio City and, smiling steadfastly under the stark rays of the July sun, proceeded to go through a set of calisthenics that would leave nine out of 10 women exhausted even in an air conditioned gym. She had picked the exercises up south of the equator.

And her coach, Carlos Vasconcellos, Brazilian swim champion for 1941 who had come along to supervise, was caught up in the spirit of things and the first thing anybody knew he was bending over and touching his elbows to the floor. Never tell me again how you can bend over and touch your fingers to your toes!

Mr. Vasconcellos found out that swimmers need exercises—anybody who does the same kind of exercise day after day needs a change. So he worked out a set that will keep the muscles of swimmers smooth and supple. They turned out to be just what Mrs. Montez needed—and no doubt they will serve you very well.

The warming-up exercise consists in simply standing erect, hands on hips, and flexing alternate knees high up toward chest. As you get into better condition, you should be able to flex the knees higher and faster.

To slim the waist, do a side-bend—stand erect with feet about 18 inches or so apart, one arm arched overhead, and bend in the opposite direction without budging the hips. Then relax and bend to the other side.

And do this one: Stand with arms straight out in front, shoulder level, and pull up through the midriff. Keep your hips to the front and fling your arms and shoulders around to the side.

Mother: "I'm trying to evaluate these comic magazines—anyway John seems to like the better ones. They are all he wants to read now but eventually he'll outgrow them and enjoy other reading."

Not all pictured comics are harmful and the better ones may even give children a familiarity with words which will stimulate an interest in other reading.

Mother: "Give me that dreadful comic magazine and read one of your nice books." Son: "I don't like those books." Mother: "Well, I'd rather you wouldn't read anything then."

Sneak Preview Fans Succeed In Kidding Gullible Film Heads

By Harold Heffernan.

Executives of a major studio, traveled out to Riverside the other night to preview one of their big epics.

Every time a certain subordinate actress appeared on the screen, the spectators broke out with heavy applause.

The bigwigs were puzzled. Maybe this girl was much better than they'd realized. Maybe it would pay to take the film back and enlarge her part a bit.

They were conferring on just such a step the following day when one of the lot's spies broke in. He had dug up information that the actress, discovering where the picture was to be "sneaked," had planted 50 friends in the audience to whip up noise in her behalf.

Nevertheless, Hollywood continues to take its sneak preview reaction with deadly seriousness, little realizing that movie-wise suburban audiences are studiously kidding and confusing them by applauding or laughing in the wrong places.

Most of the "comment" cards, which sneak preview audiences are asked to fill in and leave at the door on their way out, are humorous classics. Yet they form the basic pattern for Hollywood's final picture editing.

NEWS IN NIBBLES: Walt Disney's "Bambi," a classic comparable only to his "Snow White," carries 14 credit titles—certainly nothing for film conservation addicts to shout about. Exactly 59 persons, only one of whom (Disney himself) is known to the paying public, get individual name credit on the film's tedious opening titles.

Charles Koerner, new studio manager of R-K-O., is responsible for ejecting Orson Welles and his colleagues from the premises. Koerner is an old-time theater operator who can't find much in common between experimental art and the box office. After years of groping, it looks now as though R-K-O. has a sound and sane businessman in the driver's seat. It's a sad commentary on movie efficiency when a young man with no previous production experience can step into a major studio and spend a million dollars on a picture and keep the nature of his undertaking a complete secret from the boss until it is finished. That's exactly what Welles did with his "Citizen Kane."

Paramount hopes to keep Leslie Howard in Hollywood long enough to do a film, lead.

Howard will arrive from England late this month to start a lecture tour of the United States and Canada for war relief.

Corinne Griffith has signed with an agent and is ready to start her career again. Paramount is going to test her for a role in "The Crystal Ball," with Paulette Goddard and Ray Milland. Corinne hasn't made a movie since she married, nine years ago. Remember all those bitter fan disputes of silent days raging around the most pictures of all times and no one would be cheating his conscience by setting it down as such.

bright and refreshing film figure that every studio in town wants her. . . . Draft inroads on male dancers pose another problem for casting directors, especially with so many tune-and-dance pictures now on schedule. Dance directors are seriously considering the idea of tagging out tall girls in male clothing and sticking them in the back lines.

M.-G.-M.'s New York press department has come up with the smartest exploitation idea of the year in connection with "Mrs. Miniver." To overcome an obviously bad selling title, some bright mind in the Loew crew hit upon the scheme of having nationally known people offer selections of the ten best movies of all times. These were generally advertised in the New York press. Not so strangely, "Mrs. Miniver" found a place on every list. We say "not so strangely" because Mrs. M. actually is one of the great pictures of all times and no one would be cheating his conscience by setting it down as such.

Today's Charm Tip.

Better be careful not to wear your audience down to the ragged edge with constant repetition of a pet phrase, as: "Do you get what I mean?" "You don't say." You're telling me" and "That sort of thing."

MY DAY: Jobs For Men Over Forty

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Wednesday.—Yesterday morning we had an early but a gay breakfast at the apartment in New York City with two young guests. Then Miss Thompson and I caught the train for Hyde Park. Travel seems to be very heavy and I wondered if I was going to get to the window in time to buy a family ticket. However, the agent caught sight of me, and as my check was all made out, he handed me my ticket without any delay.

I found Mrs. Bruce Gould waiting at the gate of the train. We worked together on the way up, so that when we arrived all our talking was done and I was able to pick up the two little girls and take Mrs. Gould to see the view from the south porch of the big house and the library. We didn't have a great deal of time, so we had only a hurried visit to the library and she felt rather cheated that she could not spend more time looking at the different exhibits.

She was particularly interested in the copies of the President's speeches, showing how many times a speech has to be revised. On the way back to the cottage I showed her Nelly Johanssen's weaving. I think homespun may become quite popular where the weavers have stocks of wool on hand and are able to furnish really good material even during the present shortage.

After lunch Mrs. Gould went back to New York City and Miss Thompson and I worked on the mail and did a number of things in the house. Finally, we went for a long walk, since I thought it was cool enough for the woods to be free of mosquitoes. The two little girls found themselves so bitten up, however, they raced for home. This morning seems to be another wonderfully cool day and I can hardly believe it is July and not September.

I find that I am not the only person who is concerned about employment of older people. There is an organization called "The Forty Plus," which has branches in many of the big cities. It originated, I think, in Boston. But the most recent letter I have had comes to me from Pittsburgh, Pa.

The President, Mr. George Sheridan, writes: "The club was originally formed for the idea of relieving a situation then thought to have been brought about by the depression and with the hope in mind that, as conditions improved, the situation would automatically take care of itself and that men with the ability of our members would find no difficulty in securing positions."

"To a certain extent this has been true, and we feel we have had good success, having placed 571 men since our organization was formed in Pittsburgh in July, 1939, to the present time; but we are still meeting with and endeavoring to overcome a prejudice to hiring men over 40 years of age. We are trying to correct an impression on the part of many employers that the ability and capacity for work of men over that age is less than that of younger men."

Wife Must Put Pride Second To Keep Home Together

By Dixie George.

Dear Dixie: I have been married almost nine years and have a boy seven years old. My husband and I separated about a year ago, because he began going with another woman. They went together all the time and when he was drafted he was sent away. He writes me that he loves me, but at the same time he writes this other girl four or five times a week. He was home on furlough recently, but he was with her every day and night he was at home. He has told me he loves her, and I wonder if you think he really does, or is he just enjoying playing around with her? I still love him, and our little boy is crazy about him.

What would you suggest that I do? Must I try to win him back or let him go on with the other girl? She tries to pay a great deal of attention to our little boy when he is with his daddy, but will not speak to him if he is with me. Do you think that is love? He said something about divorce last summer but hasn't said anything else about it since and has not started proceedings. He cannot seem to make up his mind what he wants to do.

WORRIED MIND. Since you still love him, certainly try to win him back. There is not much you can do while he is in the Army. His actions certainly do not appear to be those of one who loves his wife, but since he has not a divorce I think that he still holds some affection for you, although he enjoys this other woman.

The love of anyone is worth fighting for, if you know in your heart that the love will survive the hurts and worries which go along with it. It seems to me very strange that he would profess to love you, yet pay so much attention to the other girl.

For the time being, that is for the duration, I would not let him know that you have any suspicion that he is having an affair with the other woman. When he writes you, answer his letters, but do not make them over enthusiastic on the love making by mail.

As far as the other girl and her attentions are concerned, I think she is merely staging an act when she pays so much attention to the baby when he is with his father. She proves that what she is doing is only to boost her own interests in the mind and eyes of the father.

If she really loved the child and wanted to do things for him, she would not let her personal feeling toward you have anything to do with her actions. Since he has made no further mention of the divorce, I think if I were you I would not do anything in a hurry. Go on along the best you can until after the war, and perhaps by then he will have come to his senses.

Give Baby Comfort With Cleanliness

When a baby is both healthy and comfortable it is usually a "good" baby even when summer days are hot. Fortunately for modern mothers and modern babies, the one-garment costume for the infant is no longer reserved for the day when baby has his picture taken. When maximum comfort comes with the minimum of clothes, all that a baby needs to be well-dressed is a diaper.

Another aid in keeping him cool is to supplement the morning bath with light spongings several times during the day. This can be done by holding the baby on the lap or placing him on a towel-covered table, or in his crib or carriage. Wrap the baby's own clean washcloth around the right hand. Dip into cool sudsy water and squeeze out until the cloth does not drip. Then wipe lightly over the baby's body. Rinse off, and pat the baby dry. Do not rub, as this stimulates circulation and makes the infant uncomfortable.

Change the crib or carriage sheets several times a day, even if they are not wet or soiled, for the feel of clean linen is as soothing to a baby as to grown-ups.

Diaper-washing can be made easier and more agreeable by putting the soiled diapers into a pre-pared several-pail outfit the daily washing period. Using a tablespoon of borax to each two quarts of cold water, fill the pail half full of this solution. Drop wet diapers into it, and add soiled diapers after flushing them with cold water. A sizable pail is needed for the baby's daily quota. Wash the diapers in the morning so that the strong sun can sterilize and bleach them. Transfer them from the borax solution into a tub of warm, soapy water, rub until clean, and rinse three times. Fold smooth but do not iron. Twice a week the diapers should be boiled in a soap solution, rinsed thoroughly, and sun-dried.

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP)—The

stock market at the swift pace of the year to date but profit selling on the Wednesday bulge restricted the advance.

A little inflation thinking still was the inspiration for some buying although shorts against this category were equally popular.

The war news provided nothing much in the way of bullish stimulant.

Brokers suggested some of the searing national income might be keeping in account in this category

as there are no ceilings on equities or bonds while purchasable goods were becoming limited. Public trading in the market was reported recently for the first time in many months.

The list got off to a somewhat hesitant start as assorted customers cashed in. The swing was soon resumed on active dealings.

While many extreme gains running to 2 points or so were reduced after midday, closing plus marks of a point or more were in evidence.

There was a slowdown in the final part of the session although transfers for the full proceedings totaled $44,290 shares, largest since last December 31. They compared with $76,680 yesterday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 4 1/2 cents to $77.7 against yesterday's upturn of

3 1/2, which was the best since January 2. At today's mark the composite was 5 1/2 points above the year's low and only 1 1/2 under the 1942 peak. The market was the broadest in nine years, the 801 individual issues being traded. Of these 572 were up, 83 down and 144 without change.

Bonds were steady. At Chicago wheat was up 1 to 1 3/8 cents a bushel, corn unchanged to off 1-8 and hogs ahead 10 to 15 cents. California was 25 to 50 cents a bale advanced.

Among forward movers in the

Curb were Humble Oil, Monarch

Machine Tool, Midvale, New Jersey Zinc and American Gas. Turnover here aggregated 82,145 shares versus 75,780 the day before.

Mrs. MacArthur Suggests a Recipe

Old cook books are quaint and interesting always, but one which came to my attention recently has interest of a particular sort. Mrs. Douglas MacArthur, wife of the "hero of Bataan," has a recipe in it, one which she contributed when she was Jean Marie Faircloth, living in Murfreesboro, Tenn. Jean Faircloth MacArthur's recipe is for making sweet cucumber pickles and she calls them "Mammy's" pickles. "Mammy" is "Mammy Till," a family servant who was born in slavery, lived to nurse three generations of children, Jean and her brothers being the third generation, and died in 1929. Since Jean's recipe was printed first in 1914, then reprinted in 1921, there's no doubt she was giving affectionate credit to her aging nurse.

The book which carries this recipe was compiled and edited by "The Girls' Charity Circle" and is called "The Murfreesboro Cook Book." The front page of the much used volume carries a quotation from Proverbs: "She looked well to the ways of her household and eateth not the bread of idleness." And bottom of page, "First Edition, 1914, Reprinted 1921."

Inside is a brief poem:
"Work for some good,
Be it ever so slowly
Cherish some flower,
Be it ever so lowly.
Labor, all labor
Is noble and holy."

Even after moving to Manila, Mrs. MacArthur remained very close to her friends in Tennessee. Each Christmas, she sent back community Christmas boxes with gifts for her friends in town.

Even Christmas, 1941, was not forgotten, and while no boxes arrived for the friends in Murfreesboro, there were letters, one of them to an old Negro servant who was retired and ill.

Each Christmas, too, Jean Faircloth MacArthur got her box from home, with all the real southern foods, even to fruit cake. It made quite a party for the Tennessee folks in Manila.

The book from which the accompanying page was photographed belongs to Mrs. G. C. Brandon, who lives with her daughter, Mrs. John Candler, here in Atlanta. Mrs. Brandon grew up in Murfreesboro, Tenn., which is the home-town of Mrs. Douglas MacArthur. And Mrs. Brandon says she has cooked from this old cook book for many a year. One day it occurred to Mrs. Brandon that "Sally Saver" would like to see this book mainly because of the contributions to it made by the now famous Mrs. MacArthur. Sally loved seeing it, and thought you'd like to see it, too.

Mrs. MacArthur, the former Jean Marie Faircloth, celebrates the third birthday of her young son, Arthur MacArthur. Young Arthur was born in Manila on February 21, 1938. At his christening President Manuel Quezon and his wife acted as godfather and godmother. Today Arthur is a sturdy child of four.

"MAMMY'S SWEET CUCUMBER PICKLE"

Buy at the store a gallon of medium size cucumber pickle, out of vinegar, cut lengthways and scald for 15 minutes in a 1/2 gallon of water to which has been added a teacup of good vinegar—Strain and put pickle into a crock-jar, then pour over it the following liquid, hot, which has 1/2 gallon of vinegar, 3 cups of sugar, a sparse tablespoon of cloves and a few grains of spice. Then into the crock (last but not "least") drop four (4) garlic roots the size of small onions.—Jean Marie Faircloth.

For the Empty Sugar Bowl

Sugarless Frosting.
1 1/4 cups corn syrup
3 egg whites
2 teaspoons flavoring (vanilla or other flavoring)
1 teaspoon all phosphate baking powder

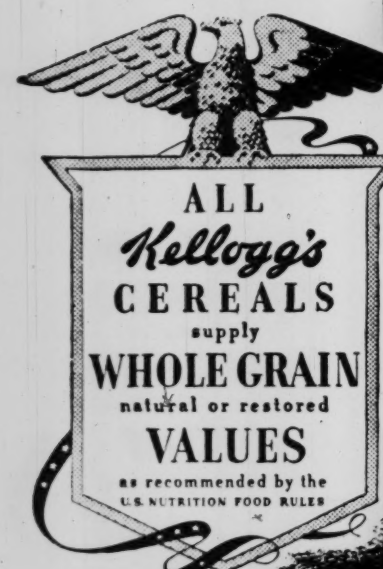

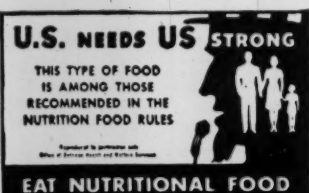

Boil corn syrup in a saucepan over direct heat until it spins a thread when dropped from a spoon. Beat egg whites foamy, add baking powder and beat until stiff. Add corn syrup slowly, beating vigorously while adding. Add flavoring and continue beating until frosting is stiff and stands in peaks. This makes frosting for two 9-inch layers; one medium loaf cake; or 16 large cup cakes.

Drop Cookies.
2 1/4 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons all-phosphate baking powder
1 1/4 teaspoon salt
2-3 cup shortening
1 1/4 cups honey
1 egg well beaten
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
Sift together flour, all-phosphate baking powder and salt. Cream shortening, add honey slowly and cream until fluffy. Stir in well-beaten egg and vanilla. Add sifted dry ingredients, a little at a time, blending well after each addition. Drop by teaspoonfuls on lightly greased cookie sheet and bake in a moderately hot oven (425 degrees F.) for 12 to 15 minutes.

IDEAS FROM A COOK'S NOTEBOOK

Cream of Corn Soup.
Cut corn from cooked cobs to make 2 cupsful packed down to measure. Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in a saucepan, add 1 tablespoon chopped onion and cook slowly until the onion is slightly yellowed. Add the corn and 2 cups water, 1/2 teaspoon sugar, 1 teaspoon salt and 1 small potato cut in small dice. Cover and simmer for 25 minutes. Then add 3 cups milk and heat to the boiling point. Mix 2 tablespoons flour with a little cold water to make a thin paste and stir this into the hot soup. Let boil up once and serve with or without toasted croutons or oyster crackers. Serves six.

Baked Tomatoes With Rice and Olive Stuffing.
Cut a slice from the tops of 8 firm, medium sized tomatoes and scoop out the insides with a spoon. Sprinkle the tomatoes with salt and pepper. Mix 1 1/2 cups cooked rice, hot or cold, with 1 teaspoon minced onion, 1/4 cup chopped ripe olives, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, salt and pepper to season; 2 tablespoons salad oil, 1 well-beaten egg and 1/4 cup evaporated milk, undiluted. Fill the tomato shells with this, packing it in lightly. Sprinkle fine, dry breadcrumbs over the tops and place in a shallow baking pan. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 25 to 30 minutes or until the tomatoes are soft and the crumbs golden brown. Serve hot.

Tomato juice will retain its valuable vitamins if it is stored securely covered, in the refrigerator. So for the sake of your budget you can buy tomato juice in large sized cans or jars, then open and transfer the juice to several smaller jars with tightly fitted lids.

To whip evaporated milk, seal it for 5 minutes, covered in double boiler. Cool, chill and beat. If desired the milk can be boiled 3 minutes right in the cans, cooled and then whipped as needed. Mark the cans showing that they have been boiled.

Something Different In Summer Salads

Since we've learned the value of vitamins and minerals we eat salads the year round. But in summertime when there is such a variety and abundance of salad material, fresh fruits and vegetables, we should serve salads oftener and add new ideas and recipes to our regular salad routine. Following are suggestions for summer salads and dressings:

Bacon Watercress Salad.
1 bunch of watercress
6 or 8 slices of bacon
6 hard-boiled eggs
French dressing
Pick over and wash the watercress, discarding roots and tough lower part of the stems. Drain thoroughly and put into a salad bowl. Fry the bacon crisp, drain, then break or cut the bacon strips into tiny bits. Chop 4 of the hard-boiled eggs, reserving the others for garnishing the top. Mix the bacon and chopped eggs with the watercress, dress with sharp French dressing, and mix well; then slice or quarter the remaining eggs and arrange attractively over the top. Serves 4 to 6.

Mixed Green Salad.
Toss together chilled and crisp sliced radishes, onion rings, lettuce, chicory and romaine or any assortment of salad greens that you prefer with French dressing.

Summertime Means Fresh Berry Pies

With berry season right at our door, here is a recipe for raspberry pie that will delight your whole family. Other berries may be substituted for the raspberries.

Fresh Raspberry Pie.
Crust: 1-2 cups flour, sifted
1 teaspoon baking powder
1-2 teaspoon salt
3-4 cup shortening
5 to 8 tablespoons ice water
Filling: 2 1-2 cups fresh raspberries
1-2 cup raspberry juice in water
3 tablespoons quick cooking tapioca
3-4 cup corn syrup
1-4 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon butter
Crust: Sift dry ingredients together. Blend in the shortening with two knives or a pastry blender until pieces of fat are about the size of peas. Add the ice water, a little at a time. Use only enough water to make the dough stick together. Mix gently into the flour and shortening with a fork. Pat into a ball and chill.
Roll out two-thirds of the pastry and line a nine-inch pie plate with it. Fit the crust loosely into pie plate.
Add filling, slightly moisten edge of bottom crust with cold water.
Roll out the top crust; cut a few slits to allow steam to escape. Place top crust over filling, folding edge of bottom crust. Press 2 crusts into fluting.
Filling: Combine all ingredients except butter and let stand while preparing the pastry.
Line a nine-inch pie plate with pastry. Fill the unbaked pie shell with the berry mixture. Dot with butter.
Roll out the other one-third of pastry and cover the filling.
Bake in a moderately hot oven, 375 degrees Fahrenheit, about 45 minutes or until the crust is light brown.

The bowl may be rubbed with garlic before the salad is mixed.

Stuffed Tomato Salad.
As a nation we've a great enthusiasm for stuffed tomato salads. 1. A simple mixture such as chopped cucumber, finely cut pieces of tomato meat—the part removed in preparing the shell for stuffing—and a third portion of chopped ripe olives is one of the best. 2. Cream or cottage cheese, seasoned with minced onion and chopped ripe olives. 3. Flaked seafood, diced celery and chopped stuffed olives. 4. Diced chicken or other cooked meat and shredded lettuce. These are basic tomato stuffings. You may want to add shredded lettuce to various mixtures or shredded raw carrots, green pepper strips and other crisp ingredients.

Cucumber Cups.
Peel large cucumbers, score with a fork, then cut crosswise in 1 1/2-inch slices. Hollow out each slice to form a cup, dress with French dressing and let stand in the refrigerator half an hour. To serve, fill with chopped celery, olives, green pepper, and cucumber moistened with French dressing, and serve on lettuce.

Stuffed Beet Salad.
This is a good appetizer salad. Use medium sized, whole, fresh-cooked beets. Chill them and drain thoroughly. With a teaspoon scoop out the centers, leaving a shell about one-eighth inch thick. Pour a teaspoonful of well-seasoned French dressing in and over each beet. Mix 3 tablespoons of chopped hard-boiled eggs, 1-2 cup finely cut celery, 1 teaspoon minced chives or onion, salt and pepper to season and mayonnaise to moisten. Stuff the beets with this and garnish with crossed strips of anchovy fillets. Arrange on shredded lettuce and serve very cold.
Hollywood Fruit Bowl.
2 bananas, cut lengthwise

4 crescents of avocado
4 semi-circles of pineapple
6 slices of orange
4 slices of red-skinned apple
4 long "fingers" of cantaloupe
Perfect berries or cherries on their stems

Dip the cut banana, avocado and apple in lemon juice to prevent discoloration. On a bed of lettuce or chicory arrange the long fingers of banana and cantaloupe, then dispose around them the other fruits, sandwiching each apple slice between 2 slices of orange. Use the berries for garnish. In serving, see that each person receives a portion of each kind of fruit. Top servings with whipped cream dressing.

French Dressing.
(Makes 1 1/2 Cups.)
4 teaspoons granulated sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon paprika
1 cup salad oil
1-3 cup lemon juice or vinegar
1 clove garlic (if desired)
Place all ingredients, in the order listed, in a small mixing bowl and beat thoroughly with a rotary beater. If desired, a clove of garlic may be dropped into the dressing and allowed to remain there until serving time.

Fruit Salad Dressing:
1-4 cup orange juice
1-4 cup lemon juice
1-4 cup grapefruit juice
1-4 cup water
1-4 cup honey
3 eggs, slightly beaten
Beat fruit juices, water and honey in top of double boiler over moderate heat. Stir in the slightly beaten eggs. Continue stirring steadily and cook over hot water until thick. Cool; store in glass jar. For an extra-special salad, whipped cream may be folded in lightly just at serving time. Recipe yields 1 1/2 cups fruit-flavored dressing.

Beet Relish
Submitted by Mrs. Fred Ball, Cuthbert, Ga.
1 qt. of cooked beets
1 small head of cabbage
2 cups of sugar or syrup
3 tablespoons of salt
2 teaspoons of mustard seed
2 teaspoons of celery seeds
1 pint vinegar
Put the beets and cabbage through the food chopper and add the other ingredients in the order given. Let stand 24 hours before using. This relish will keep well in a covered crock with a little salad oil poured over it.

Picnic Sausage (Grilled) Roll
Submitted by Miss Ruth Patrick, Rt. 2, Lawrenceville, Ga.
Trim crust of sandwich loaf and cut in thin slices long way of loaf. Cream butter and prepared mustard together and spread on bread. Cut sections to fit around Vienna sausages. Fasten with toothpicks. Toast slowly on grill or under broiler, turning as needed.

Savory Cheese Pudding
Submitted by Mrs. E. R. Kreger, 409 Caroline St., Neenah, Wis.
2 level cups (1/2 lb.) of grated cheese
1 level teaspoon flour
1/2 level teaspoon salt
1/4 level teaspoon pepper
1 cupful (1/2 pt.) scalded milk
1 tablespoon (1/2 oz.) butter
2 Eggs, separated
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
2 level tablespoons of bread crumbs
Put cheese into a bowl, add flour, salt, pepper, milk, butter, yolks of eggs slightly beaten, whites beaten with baking powder to a stiff froth, and bread crumbs. Mix gently and pour into a greased fireproof dish, and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) about 20 minutes. Serve hot. Yields 6 portions.

Drain. Boil vinegar, water, sugar, and seasonings 3 minutes. Add cucumbers and onion and simmer 10 to 20 minutes. (Do not boil.) Pack into hot jars and seal at once.

Mix prepared mustard or freshly mixed dry mustard with grated horseradish—about 2 tablespoons horseradish to 1-4 cup mustard. Serve with cold roast beef, with boiled beef or baked meat loaf.

Making Pickles at Home

From the number of requests that are coming in to this food department we know you are making pickles. Perhaps there's an extra heavy crop of cucumbers, or that more families have a garden, or that pickles do not require as much sugar as some other foods. At any rate, I'm offering a variety of recipes for good home-made pickles:

Watermelon Rind Pickle.
2 quarts prepared rind.
2 quarts lime water.
4 to 6 cups sugar or substitute.
1 quart water.
1 tablespoon crushed ginger root.
1 quart vinegar.
1 tablespoon whole allspice.
1 tablespoon whole cloves.
1 stick cinnamon.

Trim the green outer skin and the pink flesh from thick, firm, watermelon rind. Cut into pieces of desired shape and size. Soak rind in lime water (1 tablespoon slaked lime to 1 quart water) 4 hours or soak overnight in salt water (4 tablespoons salt to 1 quart water). Lime water gives a better product. Drain, rinse, cover with clear water and boil 1 hour. Boil 2 cups sugar, 1 quart fresh water, 1 cup vinegar and spices 5 minutes. Add rind. Simmer 30 minutes. Let stand overnight. Add remaining sugar and vinegar and boil gently until the syrup is almost as thick as honey and the rind clear. Add boiling water if syrup becomes too thick before the rind is tender and translucent. Pack into hot jars and seal at once.

Note: If gingered rind is wanted, add 1 tablespoon ground ginger of desired shape and size in which the rind is boiled.

Ice Water Pickles.
Six pounds medium size cucumbers (each cut into 4 to 8 pieces, according to size of cucumber). Soak in ice water 3 hours, drain, pack into sterilized jars. Add 6 pickling onions, 1 piece celery, 1 teaspoon mustard seed to each jar.

SOLUTION.
3 quarts white vinegar.
1 cup salt.
3 cups sugar or substitute.
Bring to boil, pour over cucumbers and seal jars. This makes 6 quarts.

Sweet Cucumber Pickle.
1 gallon cucumbers
6 cups sugar or substitute
1 tablespoon mixed spices
1 1/2 quarts vinegar
1 cup water

Wash and dry fresh cucumbers. Cover with brine (1 cup salt dissolved in 1 gallon cold water). Let stand 24 hours. Drain. Puncture each cucumber in 2 or 3 places with needle. Simmer (do not boil) 1-2 of the sugar, the spices, vinegar, and water 30 minutes. Add cucumbers. Simmer 15 minutes. Let stand 2 days. Drain off the liquid. Pack the pickles in hot jars. Add the remaining sugar to the liquid. Boil 5 minutes. Pour, while hot, over the pickles and seal at once.

Sour Cucumber Pickle.
Wash and dry fresh cucumbers. Cover with brine (1 cup salt to 1 gallon cold water). Let stand 24 hours. Drain cucumbers and cover with equal parts water and vinegar. Let stand 3 or 4 days. Drain cucumbers. Pack into hot jars. Cover with fresh, hot vinegar and seal at once. Spices and a small amount of sugar may be added to the vinegar.

Bread and Butter Pickle.
3 quarts sliced cucumbers
3 onions
1-2 cup salt
3 cups vinegar
1 cup water
3 cups brown sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1-2 teaspoon ginger
2 tablespoons mustard seed
1 teaspoon turmeric
1-2 tablespoon celery seed
1 pod hot red pepper
1 piece horseradish
Mix cucumbers, onions (sliced), and salt. Let stand 5 hours.

Bake well-seasoned meat loaf in a ring mold, then let get cold. When ready to serve, turn out on a round platter, ring with a border of small lettuce leaves filled with tomato relish and fill the center of the loaf with hot potato salad. Serve as the main course for a summer dinner. This is also a fine picnic dish, using cold potato salad instead of hot.

Oglethorpe Bank President Dies

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
OGLETHORPE, Ga., July 9.—Thomas H. Morgan, 84, president of the Bank of Oglethorpe, died Tuesday at a Montezuma hospital. He was the son of Thomas Hurry Morgan, who settled on the Morgan plantation more than 100 years ago and who was one of the county's first tax collectors. He is survived by six daughters, Mrs. A. L. Greer, of Tampa; Mrs. J. M. Dillard, of Raleigh, N. C.; Mrs. E. C. Chapman, Mrs. W. E. Webb Jr., Mrs. Roy A. Coogle and Mrs. T. L. Coogle, of Oglethorpe; a sister, Mrs. Mollie Williams, and a brother, J. H. Morgan. Mrs. Morgan died a year ago.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at the Lutheran church in Oglethorpe, with the Rev. John D. Zeigler officiating and the Rev. S. A. Douthett, of the Methodist church, assisting.

TOMATOES DAMAGED.
VALDOSTA, Ga., July 9.—Owing to adverse weather conditions the Holloway Canning plant will not open next week for handling tomatoes, it was announced today by the management. It was stated rains had damaged the tomato crop to the extent that a quantity to make plant operation profitable was not available.

EIGHT O'CLOCK America's Favorite Coffee TRAVELS THE HARD WAY!

U.S. COLOMBIA BRAZIL

Fight O'Clock Coffee comes exclusively from Brazil—a long, hard sea journey. Because of fewer ships to carry coffee, you may sometimes notice a shortage of this famous blend. But this is wartime and the ships are needed to transport men and materials to far-flung battle fronts: A&P, world's largest coffee merchant, is doing everything possible to supply the demand for Eight O'Clock Coffee. However, we will appreciate it if you will understand when a clerk says: "Sorry, madam, we are temporarily out of Eight O'Clock Coffee."

IN THE MEANTIME...

Try one of the other two famous blends of A&P Coffee—Red Circle, rich and full-bodied and Bokar, vigorous and winery. Both of these blends contain liberal amounts of fine Colombian Coffee—and because the journey from Colombia is shorter than the one from Brazil, more Colombian coffee is available. Treat your family to one of these finer, fresher coffees this very day. Remember—every pound is custom ground exactly right for your very own coffee-maker. You get all the fine flavor of this "pick of the plantation coffee."

British Seize Strategic Isle Off East Africa

Jap Subs Attacked Shipping Near Captured Possession.

LONDON, July 9.—(AP)—The British today announced the capture of the French island of Mayotte, strategically situated at the top of Mozambique channel in which Japanese submarines recently have attacked at least nine Allied and neutral ships.

The official war office report said the 140-square-mile island, with a population of less than 18,000, was occupied by British forces July 2 without resistance or casualties.

The island, which produces principally rum and perfume, is 200 miles west of Madagascar and about 300 miles east of Portuguese East Africa.

About 75 miles southeast of the old pirate haunt of Anjouan, Mayotte is the best situated of the Comoro archipelago for command of the Mozambique channel, on the Allied supply route to India.

It is opposite the northern tip of Madagascar, which the British captured in May.

The Japanese submarines have become increasingly active in the channel, recently sinking three merchantmen within 24 hours.

Dispatches from Lourenco Marques, Portuguese East Africa, last Tuesday, reported that two ships, one Norwegian and one Swedish, were sunk in Mozambique channel and two others, believed to be British, were attacked with unknown results.

(The London report that three ships were sunk in 24 hours indicated one of the two vessels which were attacked at the same time the neutral ships were sunk had gone down.)

During the first 15 days of June five other Allied ships were torpedoed in this area.

The Comoros—Mayotte, Anjouan and Grand Comore—have been attached to the Madagascar government under the Vichy regime.

Silver Star Given Hawkinsville Man
GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, July 9.—(AP)—Lieutenant General George H. Brett, commander of Allied air forces in the southwest Pacific, awarded decorations to 23 officers and men of the United States Air Corps and two Australians yesterday at an advanced operational base.

Brigadier General A. L. Sneed, of Maxwell Field, Ala., received a silver star while in bed recovering from dengue fever.

Other awards included: Silver Star—First Lieutenant B. S. Brown, Hawkinsville, Ga. Lieutenant Brown won his decoration in a night flight December 23 when he and another aviator strafed the enemy to prevent a landing behind American lines on Bataan. They were credited with breaking up the landing attempt and destroying nine Japanese barges.

OPA SPEAKER.
MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., July 9. Proctor W. Maynard, of the Office of Price Administration, will address the student body of Georgia State College for Women Friday morning on "The Consumer and the War." Tentative plans call for the speaker to address the local Rotary club at their Friday luncheon meeting.

FBI Arrests in Nationwide Raids Now Total 124.

NEW YORK, July 9.—(P)—

Three leaders of the German-

American Bund and its former national counsel were held in bail totaling $85,000 tonight as the total number of Bundists arrested by the FBI in nation-wide raids during the last three days rose to 124.

All four pleaded innocent today in federal court to charges of conspiracy to advise Bund members to refuse to serve in the country's armed forces, and to make false statements in connection with registration of aliens.

They were Wilbur V. Keegan,

Teaneck, N. J., attorney, former national counsel, August Klapprott, formerly of Union City, N. J., leader of the Bund's eastern department; William Luedtke, of

Saddle River Township, N. J., national secretary, held on $25,000 bail each, and Ernest Martin

Christoph, of Summit, N. J., leader of three New Jersey county units, $10,000.

Also arraigned in federal court was Max Rapp, described as a

Bund unit leader in New York city, who pleaded innocent to two indictments charging him with violations of the selective service and alien registration acts.

The court was told Keegan was one of the most important defendants indicted Tuesday.

Nineteen other persons, including 21 women, have been seized since then by the FBI in its campaign to smash the Bund.

Assistant United States Attorney Howard F. Corcoran said that while Keegan was not an official member of the Bund, he had participated in its activities, particularly, he said, in counseling national officers who issued commands to Bund members to violate the selective service and alien registration acts, and that he occupied a position equivalent to that of a national officer.

Brumby Named

For Admiral Rank

One of Georgia's most prominent sea fighters, Rear Admiral Frank

H. Brumby, retired, of Athens, has been nominated by President

Roosevelt to be advanced to the rank of admiral in retirement. His name was sent to the senate yesterday with others.

Admiral Brumby retired several years ago as a rear admiral, but during the later years in his career he held the temporary rank of vice admiral, first as commander of the scouting force in 1933-34 and then as commander of the battle force in 1934-35. He was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1895.

A sister, Miss Anne Brumby, is known to hundreds of University of Georgia students and graduates

as a language teacher.

Alpharetta Sailor Describes Horror of Pearl Harbor Attack

By JEANNE OSBORNE.

Relating how he was seriously wounded by a bomb which he thought "was going to hit him in the middle of the head," a courageous sailor, 20-year-old Lewis Castleberry, of Alpharetta, Ga., limped into home port recently on a 30-day sick leave and yesterday graphically described the blazing horror of Pearl Harbor on December 7.

Castleberry, who with 11 companions was manning an anti-aircraft gun aboard his battleship, saw the bomb coming which temporarily crippled him but, "I was just paralyzed when I saw it coming. I couldn't move a muscle," he explained.

The bomb hit. A bull's eye! He saw three of his friends killed before his eyes and was himself among the three who were seriously wounded. Shrapnel burst into his leg and side in a deadly spray and tore gaping wounds which kept him in the Naval hospital at Coronado, Cal., for seven months. Released for a leave June 20, he will report back to the hospital at Coronado after his visit has ended.

However, despite his wounds, Castleberry could still smile and say that he thought he had been lucky. "Some of my friends really got shot up."

Saw Arizona Sink.

Asked if he had witnessed much of the attack before he was wounded, he replied that he had seen plenty. "My ship was in such a position that I had a panoramic view of the harbor," he said.

"I saw the Arizona sunk. My gun crew also shot down our share of Jap planes, all right," he added with pride.

"But those two hours from about 8 o'clock in the morning when the attack started to 10 o'clock when I was put out of commission seemed like an eternity," he confessed. "Every minute we expected help to come from the Army and from the Air Force, but no help came. Everybody had his hands too full to help anybody else, I guess."

Denouncing the inhumanity of the Japs, who "always have a bag full of dirty tricks," Castleberry told how he had seen sailors who were swimming from the burning Arizona mercilessly strafed by Jap machine gun fire.

"They'll stab you in the back and run," he said, eyes flashing with anger. "I want to get a crack at 'em when we have an even break. We haven't had it so far, but the day is coming," he said. However, he confessed that he thought the Japs were going to be hard to beat. "Why, they just went on through the bursts of anti-aircraft shells as if they weren't even there."

Got Into Action.

Asked about his impressions when the raid first started, he replied, "I had just finished breakfast and walked up on the deck for a smoke. I saw the planes coming in formation, but at first I thought that they were just our planes practicing as they had been doing for some time," he began, "but when I saw them starting to lay their eggs, I was so startled I didn't know what to think and neither did anybody else."

"For several minutes, everybody was so surprised, nobody did anything. Even the gun crews stood around and waited for someone to give orders to start firing, but our crew didn't wait around much. We got into action just like magic when he saw those bombs start dropping."

When Castleberry was carried on a stretcher off his ship, the bombs were still falling on it. He was transported to San Francisco later in the month. "And that was the best Christmas I ever had, back in the good old U. S. A.," he said. Castleberry, who is a gunner's mate, second class, joined the Navy three years ago after he was graduated from Alpharetta High school.

"MRS. MINIVERS" HONORED—Ralph McGill, executive editor of The Constitution, presents each of the seven Atlanta "Mrs. Minivers," selected in a contest conducted by The Constitution and Loew's Grand, with an autographed photo sent by Greer Garson, star of the picture, now showing at that theater. Left to right, the "Mrs. Minivers" are Mrs. Maude Curtis, Mrs. P. K. Pate, Mrs. Dan Shipp, Mrs. Muggsy Smith, Mrs. Byron Mathews, Mrs. Alonzo Richardson and Mrs. Alice Cornelison.

Seven Atlanta 'Mrs. Minivers' Honored at Opening of Film

By PAUL JONES.
Seven Atlanta "Mrs. Minivers" and a Hollywood "Mrs. Miniver"—Greer Garson—were honored by a Loew's Grand theater audience last night.

Selected from letters sent in by friends and neighbors, the seven Atlanta "Mrs. Minivers" who were chosen for their work in defense and on the home front, for their courage and their religious work, were introduced to the overflowing Loew's audience by Ralph McGill, executive editor of The Constitution, and each of them was presented an autographed picture from Greer Garson, star of the motion picture.

Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, a member of the Atlanta Better Films Committee, and the senior "Mrs. Miniver" from point of service, was the first to be introduced. Her efforts in the defense of her country began two years before the war. She now is engaged in numerous phases of defense work and is the grandmother of four soldiers.

Mrs. Muggsy Smith was recognized for her untiring efforts in getting the Red Cross first aid campaign off to a good start. Her husband, one of her first pupils, is now an instructor. She teaches Red Cross swimming and teaches Mrs. Maude Curtis, mother of two strapping sons, spends her nights at Red Cross headquarters, doing whatever she can. She has taken several courses. She does her own washing and ironing.

Mrs. Byron Mathews got a big hand for doing her part for the USO and the Camp Fire Girls. Ninety-pound Mrs. P. K. Pate, who was recommended by her neighbors, is constantly on the go, doing something for her country. Her husband is now in the Army.

Tech students know Mrs. Dan Shipp as "Mom." Their letter setting forth what she has contributed to defense won for her a role as another "Mrs. Miniver."

Mrs. Alice Cornelison, the seventh "Mrs. Miniver," works all day and serves at the filter center at night.

McGill pointed out that these women probably are not the only "Mrs. Minivers" that there are thousands like them, who are doing their part with a smile. These women are representative of the great woman who was created on the screen in the image of "Mrs. Miniver," he said.

The seven Atlanta "Mrs. Minivers" were guests of the theater management and The Constitution at a showing of the picture of the same title.

Caribbean Claims Two More Ships

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
The sinking of two more Allied merchant ships in the Caribbean was disclosed by the Navy yesterday, boosting to 12 the number of cargo vessels reported in announcements this week as destroyed by enemy U-boats in the western Atlantic.

The torpedoing of a British and a Norwegian ship in which 13 seamen were lost—raised the unofficial Associated Press tabulation of Allied and neutral cargo vessels sunk in Atlantic waters since Pearl harbor to 349 craft.

Swedish Steamer Sunk by U-Boat

LONDON, Friday, July 10.—(AP) The Swedish steamer Margareta, 1,272 tons, has been torpedoed and sunk by a submarine off Arkoesund, near the limit of Swedish territorial waters, a Reuters dispatch from Stockholm reported tonight. Fourteen members of her crew are missing.

Arkoesund is about 75 miles southwest of Stockholm, on the Baltic coast of Sweden.

Reinhardt Alumni To Meet in City

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
WALESKA, Ga., July 9.—More than 500 alumni and former students and teachers of Reinhardt College from all parts of Georgia and several other states are expected at the annual picnic to be given by the Atlanta chapter of the Reinhardt Alumni Association in Grant Park Saturday evening.

The program, in addition to the traditional picnic supper, will include the showing of a motion picture in technicolor of the Reinhardt College commencement exercises this spring, and short addresses by Dr. W. M. Bratton, president of the college; Dr. Pierce Harris, of the First Methodist church in Atlanta; Dr. Roy Hutchinson, pastor of the Epworth M. E. church in Oklahoma City, and Joe Mahan, of Rydal, Ga., president of the Reinhardt Alumni Association.

Miss Dora L. Wilkerson, of Rome, author of the Reinhardt "Alma Mater," is to be a featured guest.

A short business session of the association is planned to follow the program, set for 9 o'clock.

Joseph Spengler Gets OPA Post

Appointment of Joseph Spengler, professor of economics and business administration at Duke University, as regional price executive for the Office of Price Administration, was announced yesterday by Oscar Strauss Jr., southeastern OPA administrator.

The new executive formerly served as chief of the regional analysis unit and he succeeds Robert M. Macy, who was called to Washington to do confidential work for the War Department.

Unions Seek Boost For Aircraft Workers

LOS ANGELES, July 9.—(AP)—The CIO and AFL presented joint demands for aircraft workers' wage increases today to a government-sponsored labor-management conference—demands which representatives of both sides estimated would mean a boost of at least $125,000 annually on the Pacific coast alone.

No definite figures were available because military secrecy surrounds the total number employed in aircraft factories. Reputable sources agreed the total probably would be higher.

A spokesman for Paul R. Porter, chief of the War Production Board's stabilization branch, said the discussions involved some 1-250,000 present or future employees in the industry in all parts of the country. The CIO demands that wage increases be made nationwide.

Hawaii Visitor Tells AWUS of Attack by Japs

Mrs. Thayer, 3 Atlanta Leaders Make Plea for Preparedness.

Getting her two children off to Sunday school, Mrs. R. G. Thayer, of Honolulu, had just settled down to read the Sunday paper on December 7 when the Japs came. "Don't think you won't be rattled," she told the members of the American Women's Volunteer Services at the Atlanta Woman's Club last night. "When I started out to get my children, my bones turned to jelly and I wanted to crawl like an animal."

Mrs. Thayer, who is visiting her father and sister here, told the details of a woman going mad while clutching a bit of human brains in her hand; about machine-gunning of the Woman's Motor Corps (a corps like the uniformed women before her as she spoke); the frenzied call for donors for the blood bank, which was emptied a few hours after the first attack. Mrs. Thayer's husband, a commander in the Navy, is still in the Pacific.

Mayor Hartsfield, George Phillips, head of Atlanta's Civilian Defense, and W. E. Mitchell, co-chairman of the United War Work Fund, added to Mrs. Thayer's plea that Atlanta be prepared. They spoke at a meeting honoring new officers of A. W. V. S. which was sponsored by the A. W. V. S. public speaking classes.

A little War Ad in The Constitution does many a BIG job.

Sinking of Cruiser Claimed by Berlin

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), July 9.—(AP)—The Berlin radio tonight quoted a man it said was William Forcet, an American mate, as saying that three German fighter planes deliberately crashed their planes on the deck of a heavy United States cruiser escorting an Arctic convoy and sank her.

The broadcast quoted the man, allegedly picked up by a German emergency naval plane after the attack, as saying a terrific explosion tore the cruiser apart after the planes hit her, showing the ammunition stores had been hit. The Germans previously had claimed sinking the cruiser as well as 32 out of 38 vessels in the convoy bound for Russia by the northern route.

(The Russians announced that the convoy reached its destination safely.)

20 Miners Trapped By Blast, Fire In West Virginia

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., July 9.—(AP)—An explosion which was quickly followed by a rescue-hampering fire trapped at least 20 men late today in the Pursglove Coal Mining Company's operation on Scott's Run.

Around Atlanta

Department store sales in the Atlanta Federal Reserve district for the week ending July 4 were 1 per cent lower than the corresponding week last year, it was reported yesterday.

East Lake Civic Club meets at 8 o'clock tonight at the East Lake school auditorium. The program includes a watermelon cutting and music by Cecil White's orchestra.

Dr. Alva Colbert Floyd, Ph. D., professor of missions and Oriental history at Emory University, will speak on "Shintoism, National Religion of Japan," at the weekly luncheon of the Atlanta Lions Club at 12:15 o'clock today at the Ansley hotel.

Atlanta Post No. 1, American Legion, will hold a luncheon at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Robert Fulton hotel. Dr. Herman L. Turner will be the speaker.

Course in manuscript writing with Mrs. J. B. Hosmer as teacher will start at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning in room 202, Boys' High school, in Decatur. The series of five lessons is free and is open to registrants of the AWWIS and to women who wish to train as registrars.

Bank clearings yesterday reached the sum of $14,900,000, showing an increase of $1,000,000 over the same day last year.

Descendants of the McBrayer-Leathers family will honor service men of the family at a reunion at Lithia Springs Park, near Austell, at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. A basket lunch will be served and several hundred are expected to attend.

Members of the family of the late Aaron and Nancy Sowe will hold their annual reunion Sunday at the home of Mrs. Mae Woodall, 2465 Gordon road. A basket lunch will be served at 12:30 o'clock.

Captain R. A. Gould, Chemical Warfare Division of the Fourth Corps Area, will speak at War Gases at the Techwood-Clark Howell Community House at 8 o'clock tonight. The public has been invited.

Atlanta Chapter of the American Red Cross announced yesterday that those who gave blood to the blood donor station at 848 Peachtree during the first week of the service are now eligible for a second contribution.

Scrap Rubber Collection Ends

Today is the "positively last and final" day in which to turn in that old tire, that leaky garden hose and that dilapidated pair of waterwings in the President's campaign to salvage scrap rubber of the nation.

E. L. Walters, regional WPB salvage director, called for a reinvention of the premises by everyone today, asking that every borderline piece of rubber be taken to the nearest filling station before tonight.

Rubber scrap will be needed throughout the war, he said, but during the drive which ends today, convenient machinery for its collection has been set up through co-operation of the filling stations, he pointed out.

Mrs. Edna Presnell Is Dead in Alabama

Mrs. Edna Presnell, 39, of 97 Main street, N. W., died yesterday in a Tallahassee (Ala.) hospital after a short illness.

She is survived by two aunts, Mrs. Hattie Waits and Mrs. D. S. Vining. Funeral arrangements will be announced by J. Allen Couch.

J. J. McAuliffe, St. Louis Newspaperman, Dies

ST. LOUIS, July 9.—(AP)—Joseph J. McAuliffe, widely known St. Louis newspaperman and managing editor of the Globe-Democrat for 26 years until his retirement in May, 1941, died today of cerebral hemorrhage following several months' illness. He was 65 years old.
